COURT QUASHES CRIMINAL INDICTMENTS AGAINST FALL, SINCLAIR AND DOHENY!

Halts Ship Sale To Dollar Line!

ORDER BLOCKS U. S. BOARD'S ACTION ON TRANSFER

Pacific Mail Wins Point In Bitter Battle For Five Big Vessels

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Justice Hitz, in district supreme court today issued a restraining order against the United States Shipping board, preventing it from selling the five great president-type liners now operating in the Pacific, to the Dollar shipping lines.

The restraining order was sought by the Pacific Mail Steamship corporation, which now operates the vessel under lease from the board and follows a bitter battle between the two concerns over the right to purchase the ships. The board a few days ago accepted the Dollar bid, in preference to the Pacific Mail's offer.

The order was made returnable on April 13, at which time counsel for the two concerns and counsel for the shipping board will go before Justice Hitz and argue the legality of the board's action in accepting the Dollar bid.

The shipping board, through Commissioner Lissner, chairman of the ship sales committee, announced this afternoon that it would contest the injunction. Lissner who supported the Dollar line bid said the board would appear at the hearing April 13 and defend its action in awarding the giant liners to the Dollar line.

Causes of Dispute
The controversy which the Pacific Mail Steamship corporation carried into district supreme court, as a last resort, grew out of the board's action in selling the five ships to the Dollar line for $5,625,000 cash while the Pacific company was offering $6,750,000 part cash, and part stock.

Copies of Justice Hitz' restraining order were served on each member of the board within a few hours after it was issued. The injunction provoked a new bitter controversy that has split the board into two factions. The Dollar bid was accepted by a 4 to 3 vote.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The case of the fifty-nine defendants involved in the alleged rum-running activities of the Canadian ship Quadra, seized by the United States revenue service with a million dollar cargo, was expected to go to the jury today after closing arguments are made by both defense and prosecution. Lengthy preliminary arguments yesterday delayed the trial.

Quiet Wedding Brings Police To Investigate

Weddings kept police cars busy last night. An anonymous telephone call, a feminine voice. Would the police please arrest the suspicious characters who were tinkering with automobiles parked in front of 330 West Ivy street? It was 8:30 p. m. The police would. Sergeant Blake and Officer Welsh rushed to arrest the desperadoes.

When they arrived the suspicious characters had disappeared, but tin cans and old shoes were tied to one of the machines. Within the house Lois Grace Schuyler was being married to L. Thurston Harshman.

At 8:45 p. m. another anonymous telephone call. A feminine voice this time complaining of noise at Broadway and Belmont avenue. Sergeant Lauritzen answered the call. Another wedding was in progress, he reported. "Disturbing of the peace," the police blotter laconically states.

RUM SHIP SET AFIRE WHEN OVERTAKEN

Own Crew Applies Torch As Revenue Cutter Draws Near To Capture

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The thrilling story of a rum runner set on fire by her own crew as she was being chased by a revenue cutter, a two-hour battle by the cutter's men to extinguish the flames, the capture of the doomed ship's crew of two men, and the seizure of over 300 cases of whiskey and 500 gallons of gasoline which the rum runner had on board, was told here today by officers and men of the United States cutter Tamaroa when she arrived in San Francisco after a hectic night's experience off Pigeon Point, 35 miles south of the Golden Gate.

According to the story the Tamaroa sighted the rum runner, a seventy-foot gasoline fishing boat numbered 16-W-3247 out of San Pedro, about six miles off Pigeon Point and immediately gave chase.

Story of Capture
The runner first veered for the open sea and then suddenly turned as the cutter unlimbered her guns. As the Tamaroa drew near the rum craft burst into flames, declared by officers of the cutter to have been kindled by her crew.

The Tamaroa drew up alongside the burning ship and gave battle to the flames in spite of a warning that the fishing boat had 500 gallons of gasoline aboard.

After battling two hours, during which the crew of the cutter fought the flames and transferred cases of liquor, the rum runner became water-logged and the fire was finally extinguished.

BUSINESS MEN WAR AGAINST BAD CHECK AUTHORS

Merchants' Association in New System Causes Suspect's Capture

The opening gun in the campaign against bad check writers in Glendale was fired today by the Glendale Merchants' association with the co-operation of the police when Paul E. Howard, 22, 811 Rose street, Long Beach, was arrested and held for investigation. He will probably be charged with issuing fictitious checks.

Howard's activities are believed to have started in Glendale only this morning. Shortly after 10 o'clock he was in the city jail. At noon he was being grilling by the police. It is believed to be the quickest case on record of putting a stop to the career of an alleged bad check writer.

No Funds, Claim
A new system, recently inaugurated by the merchants' association, was responsible for the detection of his operations and his arrest. Howard made a small purchase at the Lang drug store, 129 South Central avenue, and proffered a check. It was accepted.

After he left the store Lang notified the merchants' association headquarters which investigated and discovered that there were no funds in the bank on which the check was drawn to meet it, it is stated.

Each member of the association was called and notified. Howard appeared at Roberts & Echols, Brand boulevard and Broadway according to police, but left without making a purchase when an attempt was made to detain him until the association was notified.

At the Park Avenue pharmacy, 1023 South Brand boulevard, however, he was arrested as he offered a check in payment for a $22 camera.

Police said they discovered the

SHEPHERD GIVEN ANOTHER SETBACK

Motion For Bail Is Again Denied; Defense Plans To Make Appeal

CHICAGO, April 3.—William D. Shepherd definitely lost his third attempt to secure bail pending his trial on an indictment charging murder for the death of William Nelson McClintock when Judge Brothers this afternoon refused to entertain his counsel's bail motion on the grounds that in so doing he would be illegally reviewing the case of a judge of concurrent jurisdiction.

The bail motion twice had been refused by Chief Justice Hopkins and was taken to Judge Brothers' court by the defense as its last move preparatory to an appeal to the supreme court of the state.

University Licensed
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 3.—The allegation of C. Claire Fairman, head of the National University of Sciences, Chicago, under indictment in Cook county with William D. Shepherd in connection with the alleged "typhoid murder" of Nelson McClintock, that his institution was licensed by the state of Illinois, was substantiated here today when records were produced by the corporation department to show the university was licensed February 7, 1921, "for the purpose of teaching the subject of bacteriology and selling books and apparatus pertaining thereto."

Herriot Gets Vote Support Of Deputies

PARIS, April 3.—The Chamber of Deputies gave Premier Herriot and his government a vote of confidence with a vote of 530 to 0, following close on the appointment of Anatole De Monsie, as minister of finance to succeed Clementel, who resigned last night.

Clementel's resignation was the culmination of his premature announcement to the chamber that the government faced a financial straits which made it necessary to issue additional paper francs.

Replying to financial interpellations, Herriot said: "The government considers treasury reform imperative because of heavy bond payments due soon. The government shortly will propose to the chamber a new regime for the establishment of financial stability and to bring down the cost of living."

Crisis Is Avoided In French Cabinet By Herriot's Quick Strategy

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.
PARIS, April 3.—Anatole De Monsie today accepted the portfolio of French minister of finance vacated by the forced resignation of Etienne Clementel, and the Herriot cabinet, apparently escaping a crisis which threatened its overthrow, met to consider internal financial strategy, in which inflation will have no part.

The government is convinced of the necessity of thorough financial reform and finds the present moment opportune for such reform, was the cabinet's attitude.

An all-night meeting of the cabinet followed Clementel's resignation after his unauthorized declaration before the Senate that the government intended to increase bank note circulation a limited amount for commercial needs. Paris was rife with reports that Premier Herriot's position had

War Secretary Weeks Sick In Capital Home

Weeks, who probably will retire from the cabinet before June 30, because of ill health, is now confined to his home here suffering from thrombosis, it was learned today. His condition is not serious. It was revealed for the first time that Secretary Weeks had suffered a slight stroke. Dr. L. B. Hardin, his physician, issued the following statement:

"Early on the morning of April 1, Secretary Weeks had a thrombosis of one of the small branches of the middle cerebral artery producing a weakness of the muscles of the left arm. No other symptoms have resulted. Considering the rapid improvement he has made in the last forty-eight hours, Mr. Weeks should be out in a short time."

ALIENISTS SEE INSANITY IN DOROTHY'S ACTIONS

Abnormal Development Of Dorothy Ellingson Is Matricide Defense

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—The sanity of Dorothy Ellingson probably will be determined this week.

Speeding her sanity trial today, her counsel planned to finish by adjournment of court tonight. Testimony of Dr. Jau Don Ball and possibly one or two other alienists was expected to conclude the defense case. The basis of their questioning in the form of hypothetical questions has been laid in lay evidence now before the jury of nine men and three women who will determine the issue. Summarized, this evidence indicated:

1.—Pre-natal influences of a mentally disturbed mother and an alcoholic father predisposed the 16-year-old girl to insanity.

2.—Lack of control, disregard of parental restraint and waywardness in extreme youth.

3.—Abnormal physical development for her age, an unstable vaso-motor system, an under-functioning thyroid gland and an abnormally high blood pressure.

4.—Unnatural conduct immediately after the slaying of her mother.

State Board of Education Divided on Cooper as Head of College

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—The state Board of Education today refused to confirm the appointment by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, of William Cooper, Fresno city school superintendent, as president of the San Jose State Teachers' college.

The four appointees of Governor Richardson on the board voted unanimously against confirmation, the vote standing:

For confirmation—E. P. Clarke, Clarence Jarvis and Mrs. F. C. Bryant.

Against confirmation—Florence J. O'Brien, C. A. Storke, Helene Hastings, S. B. Merk.

Disregard Action
Wood announced late today that he will disregard the action of the state Board of Education in refusing to confirm his appointment.

"I will not make a new appointment for the post," said Wood. "I named the man I think best fitted for the post and am not concerned with the attitude of the Board of Education in the matter."

Wood's decision will leave the school temporarily without a president.

BLENDS FILMS WITH VOICE IN PERFECT HARMONY

William C. Cutler Convinces Scientists; Plan To Form $6,000,000 Company

Marking the culmination of years of research and labor, perfected "talking motion pictures" were shown yesterday to eastern capitalists and world scientists by William C. Cutler, 1327 South Louise street.

Nearly 20,000 feet of film was projected in Cutler's workshop. The synchronism of pictures and voice was so perfect and the capitalists and engineers were so impressed by the ease and low cost with which they can be produced that tentative plans were made for the formation of a $6,000,000 company to produce them and place them on the market.

The spectators at yesterday's showing included L. G. Cromwell, Colin B. Phipps, C. E. Peterkin, L. G. Campbell of New York and Adolph Bergson, famous German scientist and engineer.

The process, a simple one, it is said, will not be revealed by Cutler until after the final patent has been issued, although it was explained in detail to the members of the proposed corporation. It is expected to revolutionize the motion picture industry.

Other Inventions
The completion of this invention and its tentative marketing follows closely upon the sale of a food-vending machine to the Jeffries Automatic Service Co., for a consideration, it is understood, of approximately $300,000 by Cutler.

This machine, the original model of which is in Cutler's workshop with the original models of more than 100 other important inventions, will deliver to the purchaser any commodity that he may select. The Jeffries Co. will be enabled to sell pie, cake, sandwiches—an entire meal—through the vending machine. It has been made fool-proof, even detecting counterfeit coins inserted in the slot by ringing an alarm and showing a red light.

Makes Big Offer
L. K. Kellogg, representative of the Jeffries Co., selected the Cutler invention after inspecting nearly 100 food-vending machines in the United States. Others have made large bids for the rights to

P. K. WRIGLEY TO JOIN FORD 'IN AIR'

Standard Oil Executive And Marshall Field, III, Also In On Plane Venture

CHICAGO, April 3.—Three Chicagoans—Philip K. Wrigley, son of the chewing gum king; Allan S. Jackson, vice-president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and Marshall Field III—will be associated with Edsel Ford in his gigantic airplane project recently launched, it became known here today.

All are now large stockholders in the Stout All-Metal Airplane Co. of Detroit, which will manufacture planes for the American Airways, Limited, Ford's company. It is this company which Ford predicts is to provide overnight air transportation service to all big cities of the country. The Stout company is a subsidiary of the Airways concern.

Plan Appeal In Oil Case Indictments

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The government will promptly appeal from the decision of Chief Justice McCoy of District Supreme court quashing criminal indictments against the principals in the naval oil reserve scandal—ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and Edward Doheny.

This announcement was made this afternoon by Payton Gordon, United States district attorney, shortly after McCoy had quashed the indictments on technical grounds, the chief charge being that Oliver E. Pagan, special assistant attorney-general, was illegally present in the grand jury room during the investigation of the bribery and conspiracy charges against Fall and the oil magnates.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.
Owen J. Roberts, special counsel for the United States government today told international news through his secretary that he believed the federal government would appeal to a higher court from the decision quashing the indictments returned against ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, Sinclair and Doheny.

TRIO OF OIL MEN WIN ON TECHNICAL GROUNDS

Guilt Or Innocence Does Not Enter Into Decision By Chief Justice

By KENNETH CLARK
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, April 3.—The criminal indictment against the three biggest figures in the great oil scandal—Ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny—were quashed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia today by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy.

Without expressing any opinion on the guilt or innocence of the accused men, Justice McCoy dismissed the indictment on technical grounds, the principal one being that the presence of a government attorney, Oliver Pagan, in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony vitiated the instruments.

The indictments had charged the trio with criminal conspiracy in the leasing of Teapot Dome oil field to Sinclair and the leasing of Elk Hills reserve in California, to Doheny.

Justice McCoy decided that when Congress authorized the employment of special counsel to prosecute the oil case, Alcee Fomere and Owen J. Roberts thereby took the case out of the hands of the ordinary legal department of the government. Consequently, the court decided, when Fagan, who is the indictment expert of the department of justice remained in the jury room during the taking of testimony it made the whole proceeding unlawful and vitiated the indictments.

Government May Appeal
Whether the government will appeal from the court's decision and seek the reindictment of the trio, was not immediately made known, but it was said to be likely in view of the fact that the indictments were quashed purely on legal technical ideas and without the court passing upon the government's basic contentions of fraud and conspiracy.

If no appeal is taken, then the

SECRETARY WOOD GIVES C. C. STAND

Committee Work In Proposed Change Of Zoning Law
Is Explained

Relative to the present controversy over possible changes in the city's zoning ordinance, especially as concerns Glendale avenue, the Chamber of Commerce, through its secretary, Howard I. Wood, sent the following communication to The Glendale Evening News:

Editor The Evening News—So much misunderstanding has gone abroad in regard to a possible amendment to Glendale's zoning ordinance that the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce has asked the secretary to write this open letter setting forth the facts and to respectfully request its publication.

In the course of making an industrial survey, it was naturally found that zoning has a bearing on industrial matters. This brought to the front the fact that the zoning of business districts in Glendale is on a different basis than in Long Beach, Pasadena, and other nearby cities. Cities such as Los Angeles zone on the basis of commercial and industrial districts. Commercial districts include roughly, classes of businesses such as retail, jobbers, wholesalers, combined retailers and wholesalers, general distributing agencies, and all classes of light manufacturing, such as knitting plants, typewriter ribbons, candy, and, in fact, a very long list of products. The industrial district includes heavy types of industry causing smoke, needing large storage yards, or of a general type needing trackage and large plants and yards.

Three Years Old
Glendale's present zoning ordinance was adopted three years ago. It provides for business and industrial districts. Under a strict interpretation of the ordinance, practically nothing but a retail business has a right to be in the business district. Anything of an industrial nature must be in the territory zoned for industries. Yet there are a large number of light industries, often a combination of a retail business and some manufacturing or of a wholesale business and light manufacturing which does not care to be in a district for heavy manufacturing; in fact, the bulk of such light manufacturing concerns will not consider the matter of locating in a so-called industrial district.

Their logical location is in the same place as a retail business and they are allowed to locate in such districts in practically every American city which has any volume of manufacturing or wholesaling.

Informal inquiry into this matter revealed that the Union Pacific railway was doing very little in the way of attempting to locate business in Glendale. Usually the railroads are one of the chief promotional forces for the up-building of any community through which they pass. The Union Pacific railway was asked by the Chamber of Commerce what its attitude was toward Glendale and whether they were doing anything to promote the establishment of new businesses in the city.

Railroad's Reply
The reply of the railroad was to the effect that the Glendale zoning ordinance made it impossible for them to locate anything along their line in Glendale except retail businesses; that their promotional department deals mainly with industries; that they were barred from placing industries in Glendale along their line; that other communities are very eagerly seeking such industries, and hence, there was not much they could do in Glendale.

They stated further that the Glendale line was a losing proposition and naturally they would like to make it profitable. They stated, however, that they had bowed to the will of the situation as it was and were not disposed to make any effort to change it. In order to get all the light possible on the subject, W. E. Ranch industrial manager of the Union Pacific, and E. W. Gilliland, both of whom have been residents of Glendale, were asked to attend the meeting of the industrial committee. They were asked numerous questions in regard to their industrial policy and its relation to Glendale and the zoning ordinance of Glendale.

No Recommendations
In justice to the Union Pacific railway, it should be stated very clearly that this discussion and inquiry was initiated absolutely by the Chamber of Commerce and the two men named appeared before the industrial committee at the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce and they did not ask any change in the city ordinance, and did not advocate a change but simply answered the questions asked by members of the industrial committee and left the meeting without making any recommendation or asking any.

This statement was requested by the Union Pacific railway, but is made in simple fairness to that road to answer the many rumors that the Union Pacific was trying to secure a change in the zoning ordinance.

The general discussion of the subject had no more reference to Glendale avenue than to any other business portion of the city. The only action taken was the appointment of a sub-committee of the industrial committee to inquire into the subject and ascertain the opinion of business people and other property owners and report back to the industrial committee as a whole.

Committee Members
The members of this sub-committee are: T. W. Watson, chairman; H. C. Vandewater and E. Coker. Mr. Watson was named chairman of the sub-committee because he was city manager at the time the ordinance was adopted.

Home Wedding Solemnized

MISS LOIS GRACE SCHUYLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Schuyler, became the bride of L. THURSTON HARSHMAN last night, at the home of the bride's parents, 330 West Ivy street. MISS MARGARET FRAZEE of San Diego, standing, was maid of honor, with ERNEST SCHUYLER, brother of the bride, as best man. MARY JANE McPHAIL was ring bearer.

At a pretty home wedding solemnized last night, Thursday, April 2, 1925, at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Schuyler of 330 West Ivy street, Miss Lois Grace Schuyler became the bride of L. Thurston Harshman of 1006 East Palmer avenue. Rev. W. M. Thornton of Fullerton, college professor of the groom and also a fraternity brother of the O. M. A. fraternity, performed the ceremony. Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of Congregational church offered prayer.

The wedding was attended by 150 relatives and friends of the young couple. The Schuyler home was transformed into a spring garden of flowers for the wedding, fruit blossoms being used in artistic arrangement in the home. In one corner of the room pink and white fruit blossoms, white wistaria was banded to form a pretty background for the wedding. The wistaria came from the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cowan, the former being publisher of The Glendale Evening News.

The bride wore a becoming wedding dress fashioned of white satin trimmed with lace. Her bridal veil was made with pearls, butterflies, orange blossoms and rhinestone ornaments. She carried a bride's shower bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley, with a shower of orange blossoms and sweetheart roses. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, E. L. Schuyler, who gave her into the keeping of the groom.

Maid of Honor
Miss Margaret Frazee of San Diego, was maid of honor. She wore a peach-colored dress trimmed with ostrich feathers and gold lace with gold slippers to match. Her bouquet was made of sweetpeas and butterfly roses.

Ernest Schuyler, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Miss Beulah Warren of Eagle Rock played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the bridal party entering the room as the march was played. Donald Sooy of Los Angeles sang "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning," with A. E. Angier as accompanist.

While Mr. Angier was still seated at the piano, Little Miss Mary Jane McPhail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McPhail of 318 West Ivy street, as Love's Cupid, marched into the room, carrying the ring in a red rose. Little Miss McPhail wore a white cupid suit trimmed with spangles.

is present head of the City Planning commission, a member of the industrial committee, and owner of business properties. It was thought he would be a representative who would thoroughly understand any phase of the subject.

No recommendation of any kind was made as the industrial committee had merely started to make inquiry on the subject and did not have before it any data on which to make their recommendation. Full discussion of the subject was very much desired by the industrial committee because they, of course, are interested in recommending what may be best for Glendale as a whole.

The matter of building a payroll for Glendale is considered by many to be a paramount necessity for future growth. The industrial committee realizes that it is difficult to build a payroll if we maintain restrictions which are not maintained in other communities. The purpose of the inquiry was to determine, if possible, whether Glendale will be better off by maintaining its present zoning restrictions, or by bringing about an amendment making it possible to compete with cities such as Los Angeles, Long Beach and Pasadena.

GLENDALE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
HOWARD I. WOOD,
Secretary.

and a large red heart placed over her heart on the suit.

Serve Refreshments
Following the ceremony dainty refreshments were served. The large wedding cake was decorated with a miniature bride and groom with the wedding bell and was also trimmed with rosebuds. Mr. and Mrs. Harshman left on a honeymoon trip by motor to points of interest in Southern California. They will make their home in Glendale and will be at home to friends after May 1.

Mrs. Harshman is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Schuyler of 330 West Ivy street. She graduated from Glendale High school in 1921 and was a student at University of California, southern branch.

The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harshman of 1006 East Palmer avenue. He graduated from Occidental college with the class of 1924. He is in business in Glendale with Ernest Schuyler, brother of the bride. Before the wedding last night Mr. and Mrs. Ray Phillips of 363 West Ivy street entertained members of the bridal party and parents of both the bride and groom at a dinner party at their home. The table was decorated with a basket of cyclamen forming the centerpiece. Dainty miniature-bridal place cards were used to designate places of the guests. During the past few weeks many pre-nuptial courtesies have been given for Mrs. Harshman.

SCHOOLS DEBATE SALE OF TICKETS

Children May Be Barred In Aiding Chautauqua By Council Ruling

Glendale school children may be barred from aiding in the sale of Chautauqua tickets in Glendale this season, it was revealed at a meeting of the Board of Education last night, when a request that tickets be distributed among the students was temporarily tabled.

Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, and County Counsel Bishop will be asked today by Richardson D. White, Glendale superintendent of schools, to give an opinion as to whether the students can legally help in the sale. A recent opinion by Bishop held that collection of funds for any purpose through the public schools is in violation of the state law.

Uniform Salute
White announced last night that he has instructed all teachers in the Glendale schools to observe the uniform salute to the flag, as laid out by the American Legion.

Mrs. A. A. Barton, president of the Board of Education, was elected delegate to the annual conference of school trustees of Los Angeles county to be held Saturday, April 18, in Millspaugh hall, University of California, southern branch.

Plans were also made last night to conduct a teachers' institute in Glendale next December, the first time in the history of the city. Heretofore, Glendale teachers have been required to attend a three-day county institute. Superintendent White and instructors at the Grand View school

BURTON HEIGHTS BARBECUE READY

L. H. Wilson to Provide Eats
And Good Time for Visitors to Tract

Plenty of good eats and an enjoyable time for everyone at the barbecue at Burton Heights Sunday.

April is designated as "Own Your Home" month. The loveliest and most endearing memories of life are encircled around the home. The first and most important step in its selection is the site upon which it is to be erected. Health is, of course, of first consideration and we have the authority of the United States government that La Crescenta valley is the healthiest spot in the United States. Beauty is also important, and there is no more beautiful spot than Burton Heights, located on a gradual slope at the foot of the Sierra Nevada mountain range on the north, and with the picturesque green Verdugo on the south. Continual increase in value is assured by a site in the pathway of the most rapid development. L. H. Wilson, the owner, says:

"Why wonder which really is the choicest location? Think of the various southern slopes you know of at the foot of a glorious mountain range. Think of Altadena, Alta Canada, Kenneth road section of Glendale, Hollywood and Beverly Hills. All of these sections are today almost priceless because such geographical locations are limited, and it was primarily their geographical location that is responsible for their values today."

Hollywood Compared
 "Then go to Burton Heights and look around you, visualize this southern slope in a few years from now. It doesn't take much of an imagination to see enough of its future to convince anyone of its wonderful future development. Hollywood in 1905 was a beautiful orange grove with less promise of a city than Burton Heights has today, and the other suburbs mentioned were then unheard of. Prosperity in Burton Heights is as certain as anything human calculation can make certain."

"Go to Burton Heights on Sunday while there is yet a chance for the small investor to buy property on easy terms."

Glendale is made up of numerous public-spirited men, among whom is L. H. Wilson whose name is connected with almost every worthy project in the city. Mr. Wilson's theory is that building up any section of Glendale has the effect of building up the whole city. Mr. Wilson's work on Chamber of Commerce and service club committees has been exerted with a spirit of unselfishness and personal sacrifice, by the giving of his time and the expenditure of money.

Marks First Anniversary

The BRAND BOULEVARD NURSERY, located at 421 North Brand boulevard, has completed one year of business. G. Edwin Murphy is the proprietor and is shown explaining some of the many varieties of shrubs carried in stock. Recently a branch office was opened on Glendale avenue.

This month marks the end of the first year in which the Brand Boulevard Nursery has been doing business at 421 North Brand boulevard. G. Edwin Murphy first started the nursery with a small stock and no employees. The genial spirit of the proprietor soon won friends so that a larger stock was needed to meet the demand until today all of the well-known ornamental and fruit trees can be procured as well as a large variety of shrubs and bedding plants. As a side line, the nursery carries an excellent stock of seeds, fertilizers, and cut flowers. The nursery now carries one of the largest and best stocks in Glendale, and surrounding towns.

A landscape department was installed which proved to be of service to the people of Southern California. Plans and estimates are submitted on proposed development, each one of these plans being marked out so as to conform with the requirements of the particular property.

Last fall, Mr. Murphy spent several weeks traveling throughout California to the different nurseries and placed orders for future carload deliveries of shrubbery of the highest grade obtainable. These plants are continually being delivered and as they are sold, they are immediately replaced with fresh plants. Some of these plants are very rare, only a few being found in Southern California.

Large Tree Shown
 Several large specimen trees have been obtained, especially one large weeping Deodara cedar standing thirty-five feet high, the branches drooping gracefully.

A branch nursery was opened in January, 1925, with Walter V. Moffitt as manager. This nursery is located on South Glendale avenue near Colorado boulevard, centrally located in order to serve those people who pass by on their way to and from Rossmore, Montrose, and La Crescenta. It is also conveniently located for Eagle Rock and East Glendale. The stock carried has as large a variety as that found in the main nursery on North Brand boulevard.

Glendale is especially fortunate in having this well-stocked nursery near at hand where all kinds of choice shrubs and plants may be obtained, the equal of any carried in out-of-town nurseries.

The present personnel of the Brand Boulevard Nursery comprises G. Edwin Murphy, proprietor; A. W. Brown, sales manager; Miss Mildred Fischer, bookkeeper and florist; E. J. Waterhouse and C. E. Percy of the landscape department; and Mr. Dean, C. Thompson and Mr. Wilson. They are all strong boosters for a larger and more beautiful Glendale.

Monthly Meeting At Presbyterian Church

The monthly meeting and dinner of Sunday school teachers and officers of Glendale Presbyterian church was held last night at the church. H. L. Finlay, general superintendent presided at the meeting. Reports were given from all departments of the school.

Rev. John Hubbard, well-known Bible teacher of Los Angeles has been secured to conduct a class for Sunday school teachers. The opening meeting will be held Monday night at 7 o'clock at Glendale Presbyterian church. The class will be open to all teachers of Glendale and as many other people as can be accommodated. Plans were also made for Children's day which will be held in June. Department superintendents will have charge of the program.

ATWATER TO HAVE CATHOLIC CHURCH

Glendale Caseys Call Meet
Tonight To Organize
Parish There

Preliminary steps for the organization and financing of a Catholic church for the Atwater tract with Father Murphy as parish priest, will be taken tonight at a meeting at the Glendale Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 330 East Lomita avenue. Fred Huesman, grand knight of the local K. C. council, will preside.

The committee calling the meeting includes N. J. Curran, Ed Fitzsimmons and F. C. Beachley. Otto J. Emme, deputy grand knight of Henry T. Gates council, Los Angeles, and state assemblyman, will speak.

Location for the new church has not yet been decided, but it is reported that upon Bishop Cantwell's return from Rome the church will be established and named.

Peggy O'Neill, Painter, To Give Address Here

Miss Peggy O'Neill, portrait and landscape painter, mural decorator and maker of Italian raised plaques, is to speak at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the meeting of Glendale Art association at the Van Grove saloon, 337 North Brand boulevard. Miss O'Neill is a sister of Rose Cecil O'Neill, well-known American artist. Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president, also announces that Mrs. John W. Cotton will sing. Following the program members of the executive board will meet. Glendale people interested in art, music and drama are invited to attend.

School Dives To Be Ousted By Lawmakers

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—High school hangouts will be legislated out of existence if women have their way in the California Legislature, it was revealed today when Senators J. M. Inman and Thomas Ingram were appointed a special committee by Chairman M. B. Harris of the Senate educational committee to co-operate with local P.-T.-A. officials in drafting a bill.

Back rooms of candy stores, home dining rooms across street from school, among other private and public places, were criticized for improper dancing parties, smoking by girls and boys under 18. Committee agreed something should be done, when charges of bootlegging and dope peddling concluded women's plea for regulation of jazz resorts.

FIRE PREVENTION PLAN FOR VALLEY

La Crescenta District Plans
Two New Trails For Emergency Case

Forest fire hazards in the La Crescenta district, where scores of beautiful residences and spacious grounds have been threatened with destruction several times during the past year, will be reduced to a minimum with completion of two new fire trails, leading from the end of the road in Pickens canyon to the Mt. Lukins Lookout trail on the divide between La Crescenta and the Big Tujunga canyon. Work on the trails is now under way, Forest Supervisor George H. Cecil announced today.

Protection of the La Crescenta watershed and the spacious homes of the district that lie in the mouths of the canyons and along the hillside utterly unprotected from the ravages of forest fires is the object of the work, being paid for by La Crescenta residents headed by H. S. Bissel, carpet sweeper manufacturer. Bissel's home is one of those menaced by lack of fire protection.

It is also proposed to extend the fire line from north of La Crescenta to connect with the fire break now under construction along the divide west of Haynes canyon to Mt. Lukins, Supervisor Cecil said.

NEVER ENVY—

The man who quits work to try to find happiness.
The man who has married an extravagant wife.
The candidate who has been elected because of reckless promises.
Anyone who gets his money through false pretenses.
The preacher whose congregation is engaged in a quarrel.

THE LURE OF ANTIQUITY

Fame is ephemeral. Consider the case of King Tut. He came into prominence a year or two ago, after having been dead a few thousand years, to find himself more famous than he ever was in life. Day after day his name was flashed to the ends of the earth—a much larger earth than he ever knew existed—by inventions and discoveries of which he never dreamed. In the western land which was to him in his lifetime just as some undiscovered star in the trackless heavens is to us his name became a word on everyone's tongue. His image was woven and printed and carved on every sort of material. He was the motif of the year in everything from women's styles to architecture and music.

But King Tut is out of date. His post-mortem glory was even more short-lived than that he enjoyed in life, for they tell us he died very young. He is being supplanted by the Pharaoh Seneferu, whose body is now being disinterred and who was the first king of the fourth dynasty (about 3000 years B. C.) while King Tut reigned as late as the eighteenth dynasty, which makes him almost a contemporary of ours in comparison with Seneferu.

But a few thousand years do not make much difference to us. To a person of moderate means the difference between three million and six million dollars is not very impressive. And just so it is hard to grasp the difference between three thousand and six thousand years.

We thrilled when the tomb of King Tut was opened. It seemed to link us with antiquity and there is a lure to things that are very old. But it is difficult to feel much interest in Seneferu, although he is ages older than Tut. The latter has fed us up on antiquity and we are living in an age when we do not look back for long at a time. Tut has lost his prestige and Seneferu will never be very popular with us. If he is, he will have to consent to be nicknamed.

SCOUTS AND CITIZENSHIP

The labor unions of Wales are requesting parents not to allow their children to join the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides on the ground that these organizations are militaristic.

The Boy Scouts were organized by General Baden Powell immediately after the Boer war and the organization was militaristic. Even in the late war the Scouts in England performed special home guard duty of a military nature. The fundamental idea of General Baden Powell was to train boys so that they would be a reliable source from which to draw soldiers in a country that depended upon a volunteer system for its armies.

When the Scout movement was inaugurated in the United States in 1910 much of this military flavor was eliminated and it has gradually decreased until there is nothing whatever of the military about the Scouts unless it be the khaki uniform. All military drill, except enough to enable the boys to know how to move in procession or in a body, has been eliminated.

The Scouts in America is an American institution, though the organization had its origin in England. It has become a fine constructive movement for development of character. Its purpose is to make loyal and honest American citizens, not soldiers.

FILTHY LITERATURE

A number of communities in California and elsewhere are waging war upon the cheap magazines that find their way into the hands of boys and girls by way of the newsstands, magazines that contain matter described by Willem Van Loon as "a putrid stream of the most despicable, the most iniquitous and, on the whole, the most dangerous form of a degraded variety of literature." Hamlin Garland in the New York Times says this literature "is born of lugubrious Russian philosophy and certain decadent French masters of hopeless and debasing fiction. England, France and America are in the process of exchanging roadhouse obscenity, rather than the vital, characteristic and helpful literature which represents busy people everywhere."

The obscenity in some of these publications bars them from the United States mails, but they find their way to all parts of the country by other means of transportation.

In Boston a prominent publishing company and several dealers selling its magazines have been convicted of possessing obscene literature. It would seem that a fight against this kind of literature would be most effective and far-reaching when aimed at its source.

THE THREE R'S PASS

A newspaper writer gives us old-fashioned people a rude jolt and at the same time deprives us of our pet grievance. We have always felt justified in knocking the public school system for its neglect of the three R's, and now this writer tells us that reading, writing and arithmetic are no longer the essentials.

Reading was once the key to all knowledge, writing to expression and arithmetic to business. Now there are other ways of getting information, as the moving picture and the radio. Writing is unnecessary to the man who talks into the dictaphone and his stenographer types what he says. And a cheap machine is better at arithmetic than the star pupil. In other words, the three R's were never of value in themselves. They were only a means to an end, and now there are other means to the same end.

We shall believe for some time to come, however, that a thorough grounding in reading, writing and arithmetic is a pretty good foundation for further studies.

ROADBUILDING

The United States spent $1,000,000,000 for road construction last year, a larger sum than was expended by all the railroads of the country. The great increase in motor travel is making road improvements on a large scale everywhere necessary. Nearly all communities are spending to the limit of their resources to meet the demand for good roads and it is of the gravest importance that these roads be built for permanence.

A Racine newspaper suggests that it would be advisable for communities and states to cooperate to reach a common solution of their common problems in roadbuilding, thus making an enormous saving in money and effort.

After looking at the portraits of some shaved Russians we eagerly place ourselves on record as an advocate of whiskers.

FELLERS WE USED TO KNOW!

Children of the Fire

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"For we are not pans and barrows nor even porters of the fire and torch bearers," says Emerson, "but children of the fire, made of it."

If whoever created this world can be compared to the sun or to a ball of fire, we are sparks from Him.

Fire has two purposes in the world. It destroys and it also creates. While it burns down houses and cities and property of one kind and another, it is also under every boiler and creates heat for our houses, power for our railroads and electric lights. It is the source of almost everything we make.

In fact, man's distinction is that he is a fire-making animal. The legend that Prometheus brought fire from the gods and gave it to man, illustrates that man's greatest possession is fire. No beast can make it. By virtue of it man frightens and rules the beasts. Whoever discovered fire discovered the greatest instrumentality to human progress.

The reason why we believe in a kindly God and not in a cruel fate, as the ancients did, nor in gods who make sport of their subjects, is that we ourselves are partial gods. We can control matter. We can control animals. For man was given dominion over every other living thing.

In man is the creative force. He does as he pleases. This spark in man is greater than anything else in the universe.

As you stand on the bank of the river in winter, you see great icefloes coming down like continents. Slowly they slide by as this revolving globe flows through space. One speak in one of these icefloes is like Chicago, which contains two and a half million people. Any one of those people is of more account than the whole continent.

It is said that a man is really worth only $18.00; that is, the material in him can be sold for only $18.00. Yet man is greater than continents, because continents move impotently and cannot change their course one hair's breadth, while man has a spark of the divine fire, or the will.

The Chinese have a proverb: "A great army can be robbed of its leader, but one poor man cannot be robbed of his free will." Which is as much as to say that a man can alter his own destiny, while a continent cannot.

In all this universe there is nothing so wonderful as ourselves. We are children of the fire. We make institutions and think they are greater than men, but other men come along and unmake them.

We crystallize the white passions of men into states and nations and races, but the red passions of men after a while dissolve them. Nothing is so great as the humanities.

SORROWS OF WERTHER

Werther had a love for Charlotte. Such as words can never utter: Would you know how first he met her?

She was cutting bread and butter.

Charlotte was a married lady. And a moral man was Werther. And for all the wealth of Indies, Would do nothing for to hurt her.

So he sighed and pined and ogled. And his passion boiled and bubbled. Till he blew his silly brains out. And no more by it was troubled.

Charlotte, having seen his body Borne before her on a shutter, Like a well-conducted person, Went on cutting bread and butter.

American Families Are Shrinking, Speaker Says

DETROIT, Mich., April 3.—American families in moderate circumstances are shrinking rapidly in size compared with those of their immediate forebears, according to A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Macabees in an address here.

"Recent surveys by experts of the University of Wisconsin of 750 families of a generation ago and 2,500 families of their descendants in the present generation," said Mr. Frye, "showed a decrease in the number of children per marriage of 33½ per cent between the past and present generations. Families examined included those of the middle class of native parentage in the Middle West.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

When some one asked of Demosthenes of Athens, whose magic tongue has preserved his name for twenty-two centuries:

"What is the chief part of an orator?" he answered, "Action."

"What next?" "Action."

And again the answer was: "Action."

It is not strange that that part of an orator which is Bacon, beginning an superficial, and rather the virtue of an actor, should be placed so high. Francis Bacon, bemoaning the fact, decided it was because "there is in human nature, generally, more of the fool than of the wise, and therefore those faculties by which the foolish part of men's mind is taken are most potent."

The "action" advised by Demosthenes is a large part of the so-called Super-power Salesmanship of our day. Moreover, it is the chief part of the political discussion of the day. The average office-seeker, mounting the rostrum in search of votes, appeals to the heart and not to the head. Bacon, beginning an superficial, and rather the virtue of an actor, should be placed so high. Francis Bacon, bemoaning the fact, decided it was because "there is in human nature, generally, more of the fool than of the wise, and therefore those faculties by which the foolish part of men's mind is taken are most potent."

"Wonderful like (orators) is the case of boldness in civil business," observed Bacon, writing in the seventeenth century, not the twentieth. "What first? Boldness. What second and third? Boldness."

"And yet boldness is a child of ignorance and baseness, far inferior to other parts. "But, nevertheless, it doth fascinate, and blind hand and foot those who are either too shallow in judgment or weak in courage, which are the greatest part, and prevail with wise men at weak times."

Bold fellows, the Doc Cooks and Prophets of Doom of our time, are always doing "Mohamet's Miracle," and many times, to drop into the vernacular, "getting away with it."

Mohamet made the people believe that he would call a hill to him, and from the top of it offer up his prayers for the observers of his law; the people assembled, Mohamet called the hill to come to him again and again, and when the hill stood still he was never a whit abashed, but said: "If the hill will not come to Mohamet, Mohamet will go to the hill."

Who's Who

If ever President Coolidge had a crony, John G. Sargent, the new attorney general, was one. In fact, it is said of Mr. Sargent in Ludlow, Vt., near where both were reared, that he has always been the president's adviser from their school days.

Mr. Sargent has some of the Coolidge characteristics. He is thrifty and sympathetic, but he has none of the silence of the ascetic dweller of the Green Mountain district. This is due, perhaps to the fact that he did not live in a remote farm district, but in a busy little town which was more or less a center of culture and business activity. He smiles when he speaks and has a personality which wins those he meets casually. He is said to have more friends in his native state than any man who has been in public life there. He is liberal in his views and, while a Republican, has never believed that party lines should be followed in local elections.

The new Attorney General is 65 years old, virile, and active. He is six feet, six inches tall, and weighs around 250. He has kept himself in the best physical shape by outdoor activities and by spending his vacations fishing and hunting in his native hills. It is said of him that he would frequently disappear while in the midst of the preparation of a hard case and devote himself for a few days to angling.

Mr. Sargent was born in Ludlow, Vt., October 13, 1860, and was graduated from Tufts College in 1887.

The year of his graduation he was married to Mary L. Gordon of his home town. After studying law in a law office he was admitted to the bar in 1890 and soon afterward became a member of the firm of Stickey, Sargent & Skeels. He served two years as state's attorney of Windsor county and was secretary of civil and military affairs, 1900 to 1902. He also served four years as attorney general of Vermont, 1908 to 1912.

Throughout his life Mr. Sargent has busied himself with preserving historical monuments, and it is due to him that historical events in Vermont are properly chronicled and the early life of the country kept before school children. He is a member of the Vermont Historical Society and of the American Bar Association. He was against the sixteenth constitutional amendment that let in the income tax, the seventeenth that provided for the election of Senators by the people, the eighteenth, that gave us prohibition, and the nineteenth that admitted women to the suffrage. Those who know him say he has not changed his view of any of these trimmings to the fundamental law of the nation. But there never has been any

The plan used by the merchants' association, which members believe will finally stop the passing of bad checks on Glendale merchants, was adopted at the latest meeting of that organization on Tuesday. Police officials gave their unqualified endorsement of the method today, and praised the association for putting it into effect. They offered their fullest co-operation. David Meadow, Hollywood whose hearing on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses is scheduled for Monday morning before Police Judge F. H. Lowe, was also captured by police through the operation of the new association system. Meadow is alleged to have purchased a half-dozen suits of clothes from Glendale clothiers, on credit, asserting that he had obtained a factory site here and was about to begin a new, important industry. Detectives are investigating his claims. He is at liberty under bond at the present time.

DIVINE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE OUTLINED

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE IS GIVEN

Charles I. Ohrenstein, Member of Board Of Lectureship, Mother Church, Is Speaker at Broadway High

"Christian Science: The Divine Declaration of Independence" was the subject of a lecture delivered last night at the Broadway High school by Charles I. Ohrenstein, C. S. B., of Syracuse, N. Y., a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The lecturer was introduced by Miss Alice Merrill, second reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Glendale. The complete lecture follows:

Probably no one thing in human history has done so much for the peace and prosperity of a nation—yes, for the peace of a whole continent—as that immortal document, the Declaration of Independence; for it guarantees the fullest freedom of thought, speech, and action to every individual, organization, community, and state, so long as such freedom does not encroach upon that of others. And the peace, progress, and prosperity of our great country are attributable not only to our natural resources, great as these are, but to this broadminded declaration of our rights.

Our country has been called, and justly so, "the melting pot of the world, because under its influence people of all nations have, in large measure, become a homogeneous whole—Americans. Statesmen and scholars who have visited us have recognized that such a result must be due to something inherent in our government and institutions. Likewise those who visit Christian Science churches recognize that people who have been adherents of widely different religions, and even agnostics, have been brought into a unity of thought. As one of our hymns has it,—

"Now Jew and Gentile, meeting
From many a distant shore,
Around one altar kneeling,
One common Lord adore."

This unifying power of Christian Science is altogether due to its helpful, reasonable, and harmonizing presentation of religion. Jew, Gentile, and agnostic change their beliefs or unbeliefs, because Christian Science heals them and because it satisfies their reason.

MEDICAL AND THEOLOGICAL ATTITUDE UNWARRANTED
In accepting the fact that every man has an inalienable right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, our people as a whole are our country's friends. But when people or organization—in perhaps a quite well-meaning way—desire special privileges which would deprive others of their inalienable rights, there is a lurking danger of their becoming enemies of our country and of the broad-minded purpose which is the very corner stone of our governmental structure. Among such organizations—much as we respect the honorable men whom they include—we must call attention to the medical and religious bodies which have stood in opposition to the high interpretation of the teachings of the lowly Nazarene which Christian Science is giving to the world; an interpretation which proves its truth and its practicability by healing from sickness through saving from sin, and by saving from sin through healing from sickness, as the Master did.

The first and foremost thing to which all of us have an inalienable right is life. According to the general belief of mankind, life consists of a soul-inhabited body; and a well-known writer—Arthur Brisbane—has very aptly said: "So far medical practice has reached no agreement as to the right method to save the body, nor has theology arrived at any definite conclusion as to the right method to save the soul." Not even doctors and clergymen would deny Mr. Brisbane's statement. Moreover, the medical profession does not deny that in its over four thousand years of practice, it has not as yet discovered what life is, what health is, nor what disease is, nor their ultimate origin. Neither will it assert that it has reached a point at which it is able to cure a single case of sickness that is not self-limited in its nature—meaning one which would not in time be overcome by the natural processes of self-restoration. Indeed, the following extract from a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association goes much farther in this regard than I should think of doing, and charges that medical practice is nothing but experimentation. The article, which was headed, "Clinical Investigation on Private Patients," said, "Physicians, in practice, experiment every time they give a dose of a drug or, in fact, therapy of any kind, for patients differ in their reactions to substances that may be administered." According to this statement, not only is every case an experiment—which means that nothing as to what may result from the treatment is known—but every dose of medicine, and, in fact, all "therapy of any kind," is mere guesswork. Yet, much as this fact should humble their pride, medical organizations have not been deterred from striving to pass laws and ordinances—such as those of health and school boards, particularly the latter—which would place people entirely under their control; under absolute and arbitrary medical dictation as to what methods people must employ as their cures; what methods they make you free; that none, nor all of them together, will ever bring out of the joy, the happiness, which the truth has shown by Jesus and again ascertained in Christian Science givers. Christian Science makes these things, "all things lawful" unto us, because it teaches us to use all things constructively and none destructively. It teaches us that "of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat; but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil (the belief of selfish material pleasure, satisfaction, and gain)—that is of the tree of selfishness, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die."

What then is Science? Only what is true or real can be known, and only Truth or reality cannot cease to be and cannot undergo change. Everything material, which means everything accepted by the so-called natural sciences—being capable of destruction or of undergoing change, must be unreal and untrue. This does not mean that their products are not humanly useful, and that Christian Scientists do not avail themselves of such products. On the contrary, the telephone, the telegraph, the radio, the flying machine, and so on, and feel grateful for them. Science, however, is "the knowledge of principles and causes" and of "ascertained truths"—the knowledge of the fundamental, the primary, the ultimate, of true or essential being; and such knowledge the natural sciences do not possess, are not, cannot be. They are useful arts, and in showing that only by such they can they be looked upon as sciences, Christian Science does not in the least derogate from them.

What then may be taken to mean true knowledge or Science? Only such ascertained truths or facts which are basic, fundamental, and constructive, which bless all and injure none; which give life, and give it more abundantly, and bring true freedom and true happiness to all. According to Jesus, true Science is to know God and the Christ whom he came to reveal, and whom to know is life eternal; to know the liberating truth he taught, and to have the spiritual joy or happiness which he enjoyed as a result of his true, his Christian Science. And right here let me quote what Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, has defined Science to be. On page 127 of her great book, the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," she says, "If God, the all-in-all, be the creator of the spiritual universe, including man, then every-thing entitled to a classification as truth, Science, must be comprised in a knowledge or understanding of God, for there can be nothing beyond limitless divinity."

Jesus said that to know God is life eternal. That he knew whereof he spoke, he demonstrated by raising the dead. He said that knowing the truth "shall make you free," and he demonstrated this by liberating people from bondage to every manner of ill; by liberating them from sin, from sickness, and from want of every kind. He said, "My joy and my peace I give unto you, and not only did he rejoice greatly in Spirit, but he was able to retain both peace and joy even when confronted with the cross."

MRS. EDDY
If the inalienable right to more abundant life and to greater freedom is not, like that of happiness, to be a mere rhapsodic chase, must not mankind learn of him who demonstrated an unchanging Science of these things, and who did so by example as well as by precept? Must not mankind, to obtain the results which he obtained, learn of the Master's works as well as of his words, and in all humility be instructed by them? This is how Mrs. Eddy did it. This is how she discovered Christ's unchanging Science, demonstrated it, taught others to do likewise, elucidated it in all her writings, and founded it, and brought it to its present stage of development. For this reason she has been and will continue to be its only Leader. How nobly, how untriflingly, how efficiently, Mrs. Eddy devoted herself to her mission, is attested not only by the thousands upon thousands who throughout the world have been benefited, healed, and reformed by her teachings, but by the changes which, because of Christian Science, have taken place in the teachings and in the lives of other schools of healings and in other religious denominations. All have undergone changes for the better because of Mrs. Eddy's teachings, works, and life; changes which have only just begun, and will go on until the world is ruled by Christ's demonstration, until "the sea of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

GOD
Practically all great thinkers have believed in a Supreme Being or power, but without knowing what this Supreme Being is; without believing that it can be known. All religions have taught that we must believe in God, but to know Him, they have looked upon it as impossible. Yet, the Bible says, "They shall all know me (God), from the least of them unto the greatest of them;" and Jesus plainly directed all to know God. Nor have the Bible and Jesus left us without the means; but their teachings of God's nature have been so simple that the erudite have either overlooked them or not looked upon them as scholarly enough. They have looked for God in the farthest heights and in the lowest depths; in everything but that in which He is. With telescope and microscope have they sought Him but failed to find Him. Why? Because to see God, as Jesus said, requires purity: "The pure in heart . . . shall see God." To know God whom Jesus declared to be Spirit, and who is infinite, requires one to strip one's self of all materiality,—to cease believing in a reality apart from God, and so to cease believing in the reality of matter. No one who has enshrined the reality of matter in his heart, his thoughts, knowledge, or affections, can know God; for such a one cannot as yet have reached the point at which he cherishes not, loves "not the world, neither the things that are in the world,"—matter and materiality.

It is universally recognized that nothing could exist without an adequate cause to produce it, and the chief concern of Science, which, as we have seen, must consist of "ascertained truths or facts" is causation; for Science is "the knowledge of principles and causes," and thus of what is primary, ultimate, and basic. All religions have taught that God is the First Cause. They all say what, however, that really the Bible says. But although theology has taught as an article of faith, as something that must be believed, that God was in the beginning, it has not taught this as something that must be understood and demonstrated. "Believe," and thus shalt be saved, has been its dictum; and this, notwithstanding the fact that the Bible and Jesus teach that we must know God. On the other hand, the sciences have precluded, and rightly so, mere belief upon this as upon every subject. They have recognized that knowledge of ultimate, of essential being, would necessarily lead to the solution of all the problems which beset us, and thus to true salvation. They forgot, however, that really is well known to them, that, no matter to what minuteness they might reduce any mere thing or matter, irrespective of how far-fetched the name by which they christen it; whether they call it an atom, or an electron,—effect, and still effect, and never cause is seen; for, as the Bible says, "The things which are seen, analyze more things (find out God?)" Is there then—even as "the fool hath said in his heart, 'No God?' Is there no primary, no ultimate, Supreme Being or cause, simply because we know not where theology, philosophy, and the sciences have laid their hands? Thanks be to God's revelation of Himself in both the Old and New Testaments, and thanks be to the resurrection of Jesus, the Son of God, (who abided as a priest continually, both the Old Testament and St. Paul tell the Abraham paid tribute to this Melchizedec who was the King of righteousness and peace.

I am sure that, like myself, you are able to see that one without human father and mother, and without human descent, who was the Son of God, of Mind, of Love, without beginning or end of days,—a King, not of any earthly, material kingdom, but a King of righteousness and peace,—was not a human personality, but the spiritual, altogether divine, pure, perfect, right, and true idea of God, and of His universe including man; the divine idea of all right, of all well being, the Christ, the only Saviour; seen perhaps dimly, perhaps more or less effulgently by Abraham, by Moses, by the prophets, and by us, present then and now. I am sure that you are able to see that it was this divine idea of being which came to Abraham at eventide—the even tide of right thinking—and that it was to this idea which Abraham paid tribute,—the tribute of worship and adoration; that it was this divine idea which he reflected so fully through Christ Jesus because, more than any one of whom we know, he paid tribute in complete adoration, submission, and obedience; worshiping it by applying it to all human needs and demonstrating its power to meet them; thus fully manifesting it. It is the divine, the spiritual, the right idea of being, then, that is the ever present Christ, the true Saviour, and Redeemer, which is as Emmanuel—God with us. How wonderfully, how truly, Eddy told us of the Christ, when in the textbook of this Science (p. 333) she has said that "throughout all generations both before and after the Christian era, the Christ, as the spiritual idea,—the Son of God,—has come with some measure of power and grace to all prepared to receive Christ, Truth."

MAN
But Christian Science also shows us the true nature of man and of the universe in which we live, and it is by so doing that it frees us from the ills to which the flesh has been believed to be heir. The process, like every thing in Christian Science, is very simple, but, in order to achieve results, an understanding of the subject and an honest application are required. In an earlier part of the lecture it was shown that primary existence is what the Religionist calls God, whom Jesus declared to be Spirit, thus Mind, and what the nonreligionist or rationalist would call essential or immortal conscious power, and thus also Mind,—or, as Matthew Arnold put it, "a power that is not ourselves which makes for righteousness." But by whatsoever name one or other doctrine may designate this power, it is what was in the beginning or, as Mrs. Eddy more correctly states it (Science and Health, p. 502), it was "the only." Being primary, this power was and is the only Principle of existence; being conscious, it was and is Mind; and being "the only," everything must be its product, and must partake of its every property and quality,—a fact which applies particularly to its highest product,—its conscious expression or manifestation,—man. Here, then, we have a rationalistic and incontrovertible statement of the first chapter of Genesis,—that God made all that was made; that He made man, male and female, in His own image and likeness, and that He pronounced all that He made good, very good. It is upon this perfectly Scriptural and perfectly rational basis that Christian Science declares that the only kind of a man there is, is like the only kind of a God there is, and God being Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, and Love, man is the manifestation of the complete good of All, or God.

EVOLUTION
Nor does Christian Science waste time and effort over the theory of evolution. For the important thing is not how a carnal and carnally minded kind of a man came into being, but how this kind of a man, or mankind, may evolve into a healthier, happier, more moral, and a more Christian man. Mrs. Eddy says, "In its history of mortality, Darwin's theory of evolution from a material basis is more consistent than most theories." But she also says, "The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development." (Science and Health, p. 547; and (ibid., p. 172), "Theorizing about man's development from mushrooms to monkeys and from monkeys into men amounts to nothing in the right direction and very much in the wrong."

For this reason, as Mrs. Eddy further teaches, "Spiritual evolution alone is worthy of the exercise of divine power" (ibid., p. 135), and it is that mankind may cease to be carnal and carnally minded in its tendencies, and evolve into spiritual mindedness and a consequent higher manifestation of man, that Mrs. Eddy labored to let the true import of Christ's Science known and accepted.

EFFECTS OF RIGHT AND OF WRONG TEACHING
But here it may be objected that what has been said about man is not what we have been taught to mean by man. Very true; and that is why every one is so much the worse for what all have been taught. Let every one be taught, as Christian Science teaches, that man is the manifestation of the intelligent, unending, unchanging, unchangeable, and immortal mind or Mind, and ignorance and mistaken beliefs of all kinds will disappear; let every one be taught that man is the manifestation of divine Spirit and is spiritual, and materiality and sensuality with all their debasing, degrading, dis-easing results will be overcome; let every one be taught that man is the manifestation of divine Principle, and nothing unprincipled will be done; let every one be taught that man is the manifestation of unending Life, and life will be prolonged until "the last enemy," death, shall be overcome; let every one be taught that man is the manifestation of Truth, and deception and dishonesty will be banished; and let every one be taught that man is the manifestation of divine Love, and selfishness, improvidence, cruelty, strife, and war will cease and the brotherhood of man will become a demonstrated fact.

Yes, Christian Scientists know quite well that all have been taught that man is "a mammal capable of carrying his body upright in locomotion, with a big toe that is not opposable," that, as one of the ancients defined him, man is a mere featherless biped. But Jesus, who knew what man really is, and who showed forth the God-created, the God-anointed, or Christ-man, said to those who manifested little more than materiality, little more than an erroneous sense of God and man, "Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father will do it. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he is a liar, and the father of it. All of which means that those who entertain a mere material, unintelligent, selfish, sensual sense of being, are the product of destructive falsity, of which they, together with those upon whom they impose and prey, are the victims."

APPLICATION OF RESULTS
"Divers measures . . . are abomination to the Lord," we read in Proverbs. To the chemist water is always H₂O. To the Christian Scientist man is always the image and likeness of God. And just as every chemist knows the truth about water, so every Christian Scientist knows the truth about man. He also knows that just as the chemist by distillation, by a right process of elimination, can restore pure water, H₂O, so the Christian Scientist knowing that man, the reflection of Mind, consists only of right ideas, can by the purification of thought, and the elimination of superstition, of ignorance, materiality, and their attendant fears, diseases, untruthfulness, dishonesty, greed, malice, envy, hatred, jealousy, revenge, and immorality, restore the true man, "which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness;" that is, in health, harmony, and perfection. Indeed it is in this way that healing by Christian Science is brought about, and such healing is always reformatory. Every Christian Scientist will tell you that the understanding of the nature of God, of Christ, of Truth, and of man,—the understanding that the kind of man which God made is the only real man, has enabled him to be a better, a healthier, a cleaner, a kinder man than he formerly was; that it has made him freer and happier, and that in thousands upon thousands of cases it has prolonged the span of human life beyond all expectancy.

We have ascertained here in a perfectly simple, logical way that there is only one real Mind; that this one and only Mind is all-good and infinite, and being such—irrespective of all appearances, irrespective of all that is believed—this Mind is the only real presence, the only real power, the only real consciousness, and therefore the only true cause of everything that really is; of everything that can be thought, felt, known, experienced. Does it not follow that everything that is really thought, felt, known, and experienced is in conformity with this all-able, and all-inclusive Mind? Ascertained truth is Science. I submit, therefore, that in accordance with this universally accepted definition, by all the rules of logic, by all the rules of common sense, what we have ascertained here is Science, and nothing less than Science.

I think it was Victor Hugo who said, "There is no power like that of an idea whose time is come." It is no oracle to tell us that everything that has made for progress has been due to right ideas and devotion to them. On the other hand, everything that has hindered our onward and upward march has been due to the tenacity with which people have clung to wrong beliefs. Now, let every one here take the simple truth of God's allness and of God's goodness which Christian Science teaches; let him practice what it teaches for a minute, an hour, a day, a week, a month, a year,—yes, let him conform to its all-mastering right idea of being upright; let it take full possession of him, and then let him, as he is sure to do, tell what it has done for him. I shall tell you now what I am truly able to tell you from my own experience,—yes, from the experience of thousands of others. He will tell you that it has made him a better, an abler, a healthier, a more loving, a more enlightened and progressive man; a man who has life, freedom, happiness, and has them more abundantly than he ever dreamed that he could possibly have them. More than this,—what has been said here about the truth of God, of Christ, of man,—no matter what your present view of it may be, will never altogether leave you. Sometime, somewhere, when perhaps you need it most, it will come to you, unfold itself to you, and help you, comfort you, and free you because it is the truth of God; and the nature of the truth of God is to make free from all that is contrary to God, and so contrary to good.

During the trying years through which the world has been passing, all men and all countries have been looking for some one wise enough, strong enough to save and to deliver them. Christian Science

MT. LOWE TAVERN GETS ADDITION

Enlarged, Improved Hostelry To Be Opened Anew Tomorrow Night

Enlarged and improved throughout to the extent of $35,000, the Mt. Lowe tavern is to be dedicated to the public tomorrow night when a pretentiously arranged entertainment program will be given at which officers and directors of the Community Development association will be guests of honor. A special dinner, ball, singers and entertainers, enlarged orchestra and a program of short addresses has been arranged by Tavern Manager F. B. Clark.

Outstanding in the improvements just finished is the addition of thirty-one rooms to the tavern, about half of which are equipped with baths, the enlargement bringing the housing capacity of the resort to about 185 persons. Steam heat, hot and cold water has been piped throughout the tavern. An enlarged ball room has been constructed and so designed as to be used as an auxiliary dining room to care for conventions, banquets and overflow crowds during the rush season.

Scenic Pavilion
Other improvements include the erection of a rustic scenic pavilion at Inspiration Point, a two-table billiard room, modernized kitchen, new boiler plant, ladies rest room and an enlarged playground and picnic grounds fitted with new tables and equipment.

The new rooms in the tavern are richly furnished in green and grey decorated walnut and the improvements throughout are of a character to rival in comfort, taste and refinements high class hotels. Continually increased demands for stop-over accommodations brought about the new additions just made. About 150,000 persons visit the resort each year.

The Mt. Lowe Tavern was constructed in 1896, the year following the completion of the rail line between Echo Mountain and the present terminus of the line. Both the railway and the tavern were acquired by the Pacific Electric in February, 1902.

RUTH MAY SHAFNER, soprano, who will appear on the all-American program Tuesday night.

Ruth May Shafner, soprano, will be one of the American artists presenting the program Tuesday night at the meeting of Glendale Music club at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. Miss Shafner is an artist very near the hearts of California music lovers for she is a native daughter. She is a young woman whose beauty of voice and intelligent artistry, with the additional qualifications of a refreshing personality, and a stage appearance delighting the eye, have won for her a recognition of that substantial sort which has placed her in a highly enviable position as one of the finest sopranos in the field of concert work.

Sharing honors with Miss Shafner Tuesday night will be Homer Grunn, brilliant American pianist-composer; and Lester Hugh Castle, American baritone. Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, president of the club, reports that the patron list for the concert is growing. Club members are to be admitted by membership cards. WILD INJUNS GIVE THRILL TO CIRCUS

Four Tribes Represented In Barnes' Big Show In Glendale April 8

"W-h-o-o-p-e-e!"

"The Injuns are coming—uncover the covered wagon and save the women and furniture!"

From wild and arid deserts of Arizona, the cactus-covered plains of Nevada and the rolling hills of New Mexico tribes of wild Indians have traveled to join the A. G. Barnes big four-ring circus, coming to Glendale on Wednesday, April 8.

These full-blooded American Indians will play an important role of the gigantic cast of the greatest, sensational circus feature of the age, "Pocahontas at the Court of Queen Anne," the lyrical extravaganza that opens the big program.

Hopi, Washoe, Escondido and Apache Indians are some of the tribes to be represented in all their wamparts. The Hopi Indians will "show the world" how the famous Hopi snake dances are performed. Thousands of people travel to Arizona every year to witness the marvelous performance of the Hopi Indians, when the fantastic, religious snake dances are held to the rhythm of the weird aboriginal desert.

Daredevil Feats
In the course of these dances the Hopis encircle themselves with rattlesnakes. These ceremonies will be repeated under the big tops, where all can witness them, in addition to the "daredevil feats" of 2000 educated wild animals.

Lotus, the largest "blood-sweating" performing hippopotamus in the world, will also be there. Over 1000 performers are included in the big show this year.

And last, but not least, there will be the greatest movie star of them all—Joe Martin, himself. It's the show that's different every year.

ATWATER MAY SECURE NEW BRANCH LIBRARY

Petition Filed With L. A. City Council
Asking District Be Included In
Proposed $1,000,000 Bond Issue

Branch library plans for the Atwater district took shape yesterday when a petition asking a branch building for Atwater be included in the proposed $1,000,000 library bond issue was presented to the City Council by the Atwater Community Improvement association. The petition bore the signature of more than 300 property owners.

A branch library was sought some months ago, but at that time action was deferred until a library bond issue could be submitted. A communication to the Improvement association, giving details of the bond issue, that is now proposed and signed by Everett T. Perry, clerk of the library board, urged all Atwater voters to support the issue if it finds its way onto the ballot.

New Planes For Flyers

With two more training planes assigned to Griffith park flying field yesterday and plans for stationing a full squadron of nine ships at the field in the near future, Col. C. C. Mosley and Sergeant J. R. Sergeant Stoltz announced today.

Yesterday afternoon two additional Curtis training planes were added to the five ships already stationed at the field. The new craft were transferred from the army field at San Diego. Two more airships will be added in the near future, Sergeant Stoltz said. He will then be ready for training activities.

Last Day To Register

Voters of the Atwater Park district who have not yet registered to vote at the municipal election on May 5 will be given a final opportunity to do so tomorrow, when Mrs. E. V. Bacon will register voters at the Arthur M. Gilman realty office, 3218 Glendale boulevard, and Mrs. J. C. Gardner will be available for the same purpose at her home, 3460 Perilla avenue. Those registering after tomorrow will not be eligible to vote at the May primaries. Leaders of the district urged all to register today in order that a large Atwater vote may be gotten out at the election.

Masons Hold Smoker

Fifty Masons of the Atwater district were entertained by officers of Atwater lodge at a smoker last night. Newton Van Why, past master of Unity lodge, Glendale, spoke to the Atwater members on the principles of Masonry. The meeting, the first get-together session to be held since Atwater lodge was organized several months ago, was held at 3218 Glendale boulevard. Fred H. Chapman, master of the lodge, presided.

ENDORSEMENT IS GIVEN BY PASTOR

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Writes
In Favor Of Candidacy
Of Miss Ruth Kern

The Glendale Evening News is in receipt of the following self-explanatory communication:
Editor, The Evening News:—I have received a number of letters recently in connection with the candidacy of Miss Ruth Kern for city treasurer, among which the following stands out prominently, in view of the fact that it gives the voters of Glendale a very good idea of the morals of this candidate. I quote from a letter received this morning from Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church: "Miss Kern and her family are members of our congregation, and it gives me very great pleasure to commend her most highly. I am assured of her absolute competency as touching the position which she seeks, and as sure, if she is successful, as I hope she will be, her services will more than fulfill the expectation of the citizens of Glendale."

"It has been my purpose, ever since I learned of her candidacy, to give it my endorsement."

"W. E. EDMONDS."
I am glad to pass this information along to the public, because a position of this responsibility not only demands ability, but character as well, and I am sure the public will appreciate this information regarding Miss Kern. A. L. BAIRD.

Local Business Men Guests At Burbank

Members of the City Council, directors of the Chamber of Commerce and a group of leading citizens will represent Glendale at a community dinner given by the city and Chamber of Commerce of Burbank at the Old Stone Inn tonight at 6:30 o'clock. Included in the group from Glendale will be members of the Glendale university committee, headed by George J. Diet And Health

DOES YOUR CHILD FUSS ABOUT HIS FOOD?

The following paper is prepared by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Diseases and published by the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, New York. It is so well written and I agree with it so thoroughly, that I am going to give it to you just as it presents it.

1. Maybe, without knowing it, you have started the habit.

2. Do you fret about what he eats and whether he is getting enough? If so, very likely at every mealtime you make him the star actor in a little drama, and every child likes to be the center of attention.

3. Do you talk about his eating habits to other people in his presence? If so, any child would feel important and want to keep up his appetite.

4. Do you insist on feeding him after he is old enough to feed himself, just because it is easier than to teach him? Better let him spill a little till he learns, than allow him to become dependent and, hence, often fretful.

5. Is there anything in the family very particular about eating? Of course a child likes to imitate what older people do.

6. Maybe you have not fed him wisely.

7. Do you choose plain, nourishing, easily digested foods and cook them well?

8. Do you let your child taste everything that grows upon the earth? A child used to having tea, coffee and highly seasoned foods or too many sweets has lost a healthy appetite.

9. Do you serve food as attractively as you can and in not too large quantities? Children hate to eat things that do not look well, and are sometimes discouraged by too much.

10. Do you feed your child regularly? A child cannot go too long without food, while eating between meals means that his little stomach is overworked.

11. Maybe this is a warning that your child's nervous system is not working in a healthy way.

12. Do you find that he sleeps poorly, is irritable, or has violent tempers or strange fears? If so, not only his eating, but other habits of his life are probably disarranged.

13. Maybe you have not realized what an effect emotion has upon the taking of food.

14. Do you know of a child who is angry or fearful or worried cannot digest food properly? If, then, he refuses food at such times, do not try to make him eat, but overcome the emotion first by

For Kiddies' Colds

Mothers who have precious little lives in their keeping realize the danger to delicate stomachs of so much dosing. That is why so many millions of mothers now depend entirely upon Vicks for croup and children's colds. There is nothing to swallow—you just rub Vicks over throat and chest at bedtime and cover with a warm flannel, leaving the bedclothes loose about the neck so that the arising vapors may be freely inhaled. The child is usually better next morning. Vicks can be used freely and often with perfect safety, even on the youngest member of the family.

Entertain Club

Friday Bridge club members will be entertained tonight at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Stillman, 530 North Kenwood street.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

BOBBED HAIR AND NOSES

This is for the bobbed and shingled woman and for her who still wonders whether short hair might not be as becoming as long hair. They say the bob is out, it isn't, and there are no signs that it will be for another two years anyway. Paris has set a new fashion in short hair, which is to wear it, either parted in the middle and brushed smooth and glossy down each side, if the hair is straight, or if there is any fluff or wave, to part it and slick it as straight as possible until within a few inches of the ends, about the line of the top of the ear, and then have it break into a mass of soft waves and curls.

This last is a dangerous style, to be trusted only to the most skilled hair dresser. Otherwise, it will look as though hopelessly straight hair had been artificially dressed in this fashion, and hair that looks wavy looks tortured. Consider your nose if your hair is already bobbed or if you are going to cut it. A thin face and a long nose must have the hair a little wavy and coming well over the ears. This is to give a series of lines that are not up and down, to break the long lines of the face. A short, fat face needs the hair drawn away slightly, and perfectly straight hair will probably look best. An oval, serious face will look very pretty with very straight, very glossy, very well brushed, parted hair, too. A pug nose should be as inconspicuous as possible. There fore slightly waved hair, parted well on one side and coming well over the ears, will look best. A large nose, aquiline in shape, will look best with hair brushed from the forehead and back, and slightly waved and parted in the middle. The hair that should be soft and fluffy with thin or middle aged faces, severely straight with chubby and very young ones.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

"I'll give Mrs. Hurst every chance there is, that's the best I can do," Flint hesitated an instant, then laid his hand affectionately on Graham's arm. "If I were you I'd go on believing in her, my boy, and let me do the doubting; that's my business—nasty business, too—keep out of it."

The house agent was still on the doorstep as they left the house. He was barring the way to a colored woman with a laundry basket. Grown still more churlish with waiting, he was ordering her off and denying all responsibility for the debts of tenants who had vanished, leaving no trace.

"Here is where a small investment may bring in big returns," whispered Flint. "I'm going to gamble on it, anyway."

He pushed the agent aside and held up a pacifying hand. Under Graham's very eyes the little man was suddenly transformed into a benign philanthropist—his spectacles radiated kindness; his smile, no longer quizzical, appeared the outward and visible sign of a spirit of benevolence; his small figure seemed to take on the comfortable roundness of the affluent. Even his sharp, nervous voice sounded smooth and unctuous as he addressed the clamorous washerwoman. In a moment she was quieted by the promise of payment should she carry the clothes to a given address; and the kind, sympathetic gentleman was in possession of a hurriedly scrawled laundry list.

Flint glanced hastily at the paper in his hand and then, to the disgust of the house agent, drew Graham back through the still open door.

"I was just trying for handwriting, but I believe I've struck a gold mine," he said excitedly.

"Tell me first how, in heaven's name, you did it?" exclaimed Graham.

"Did what?"

"Turned yourself into a fat, benevolent Croesus."

Flint chuckled. "Oh, that's easy. You have only to feel yourself the sort of man you want to be—a millionaire, for instance, and somehow you'll look it. I make myself feel inside as if I was rolling in gold and my face has got to look that way—can't help itself. The feeling part, of course, takes learning. It's some trick to feel a millionaire with five cents in your pocket and your watch in pawn, but you can do it—with time." He motioned to Graham to draw up a chair to the rickety table in the center of the room and then handed him the laundry list.

"Take a look at that!" he said.

The list, in itself, was uninforming, but on turning it over Graham saw that the other side of the paper was covered with writing in a flamboyant feminine hand. It was obviously a piece of the last page of a letter which, still more obviously, had been written by a woman in a moment of jealous rage. Though a great part of the sheet had been torn away, Graham could still make out sentences such as: "She shall not take you from me," and again, "I'll get even with her," and "I'll spoil her game." The signature, too, was intact.

Flint, reading over Graham's shoulder, burst so jubilantly into his triumph motif, that the "Campbells" seemed to be coming on the run. He reached over and drew his finger beneath the name, underlining it.

"Now, what do you think of that?" he exclaimed.

The letter was signed, "Your very own Gwendolyn."

Still whistling, Flint took from his wallet the scrap of paper on which Miss Smith had written her address the week before, and laid it on the table side by side with the page torn from the letter. The handwriting on the two was identical.

"What does it mean?" asked Graham excitedly.

"It means a thundering lot!" cried Flint. "Just how much I don't know yet; but this wild-goose chase of ours has certainly caught us a cooling at least. Think of Brown slipping up like this! It's great! Every track covered, not a clew left, not even a finger-print, and then to do a fool thing like this! He must have been in the devil of a hurry."

"Why do you think the letter was written to Brown?"

"The name Brown is on the laundry slip, that's why. It isn't likely that he used the back of another man's love letter for his 'wash list.'"

"But I don't see—"

"Work it out for yourself, Mr. Graham. That's the way detectives are made—work it out. That letter is an eye-opener. Say to yourself: The fair Gwendolyn is jealous of somebody. Who is the somebody? She is going to spoil somebody's game. What game? She is going to get even with somebody. Has she done it? If she has—how? You think about it, Mr. Graham, but stick to thinking—don't you mix up in this other mess; it's too big for you. Well, I'm off. So long, Mr. Graham. Mind, now, hands off in this anarchist business, and not a word to a soul."

Graham made his way slowly back to his own quarter of the town, pondering as he went the problem set him by Flint. Given that the letter was written to Brown, then, he reasoned, as the two green spangles connected Brown and Estelle, it was Estelle of whom Miss Smith was jealous.

That was simple enough. But what Estelle's game was that Miss Smith was going to spoil, or how she was going to spoil it, unless by murdering Hannibal Hurst, which he did not think would be for Graham's undeveloped imagination to spoil anything for anybody, Graham's undeveloped imagination could not compass.

It was growing late, instead of turning homeward, an impish spirit in his feet led him, he knew not how, another way. Before he realized where he was he found himself walking down the block in which stood the gloomy, sinister house toward which his thoughts were ever turning. It was too late to call, but it gave him a thrill of pleasure to walk by it and look again at the spot where Evadne and he had met.

A man was standing on the steps. As Graham approached, he saw that it was Denis. The old man was shivering in his thin house coat while he peered, now this way, now that, through the dusk. Graham, glad of an excuse to linger, stopped and spoke to him. "Looking for somebody?" he asked.

The old man seemed disconcerted at being discovered. "No, sir—no," he stammered. "I was just watching out a minute."

"Watching for what?"

"Just to see would Miss Estelle be coming, sir."

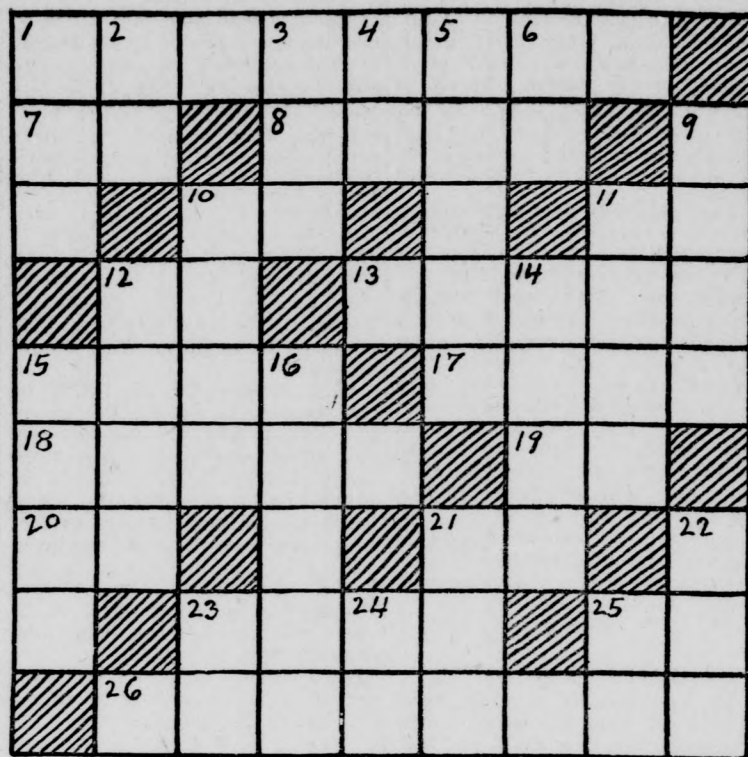

This was news. "She has been heard from, then? You are expecting her?" Graham asked with interest.

"No, sir, not rightly expecting her, just watching out. Denis' voice had a tired, hopeless ring in it. Suddenly he turned on Graham in feeble fury. "Why did she go? What have they done with her? Answer me that, Mr. Gra-

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white square that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterrupted.

ham. What have they done to my little girl?" He rocked himself forlornly to and fro. "My little girl that I love like she was my own!" His voice broke into a low wail. A passerby looked up at him curiously. Indifferent to the attention he attracted, he caught Graham by the sleeve and whispered in his ear: "Listen, till I tell you something. I've kept it close, for there's some that wouldn't understand. But it's the understanding eye you've got, Mr. Graham, and I can get the weight of it off my soul. Listen—it's my own child she is, Mr. Graham."

"Good God, man, what are you saying!" cried Graham.

"Wait now, wait till I tell you," pleaded Denis. "It's this way. Years ago a man told me—a man that had lived in far places. Millions and millions of people knew it, he said. 'Where does your soul go when you die?' he says."

"To purgatory for my sins," I answers him.

"Purgatory nothing!" he says. "It finds a newborn body and enters in," he says. 'And so it goes on forever.'"

"Poor, weary soul," says I.

"Yes," says he, 'that's purgatory enough for any soul, and it's all the purgatory there is.' Of course I wasn't believing all that, with Holy Church telling me to purgatory I was going; but I kept turning it in my mind like, till I made it out this way:

"Tis the souls of the little children that find the new bodies; them as haven't had their share of life and are let have another chance. That way it wouldn't be denying the word of Holy Church, for once they grew up in their new bodies there would be purgatory waiting for them. So I settled it like that in my mind and never another thought did I give it till my Katy died. Oh, but it was the broken heart I had that day. And it was the day that Miss Estelle was born, and the mistress died."

UNCLE WIGGILY AND ROBBIE'S RAISIN
Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy baked some cookies in the hollow stump bungalow one day and in the center of each cookie the muskrat lady housekeeper put a plump, fat raisin.

"Oh, how jolly those cookies look with their raisins!" cried Uncle Wiggily, when he saw them in the pan, as they were taken from the oven. "How lucky I am," went on the rabbit gentleman, "to have such a wonderful Nurse Jane cookie-baker!"

"Hop along with your nonsense!" laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, yet she was well pleased, for all that, since it is good to be praised for things we do—if there isn't too much praise.

Then Uncle Wiggily looked from the raisin cookies to the path outside, and saw, skipping along a little boy squirrel whom he knew. It was neither Johnnie nor Billie Bushytail, but Robbie, their brother.

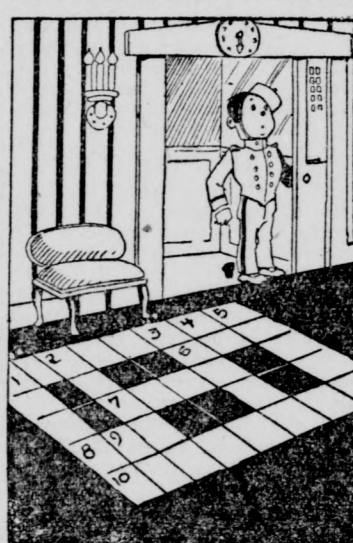

"Ah, Robbie isn't as lucky as I," thought Uncle Wiggily. "He has no cookies with raisins in, but soon he is going to have one!"

So the bunny went to the door of the bungalow and called: "Hi, Robbie! Come in and have a cookie with a raisin in the middle—a fat, plump, sweet raisin!"

"Give Robbie a raisin cookie, if you please, Nurse Jane," said Mr. Longears, and Nurse Jane picked out the biggest cookie, containing the largest, fattest, sweetest raisin in the center for the little squirrel boy.

"Oh, thank you, ever so much," chattered Robbie politely, before he even so much as took a teeny-weeny nibble from his cookie.

"Now sit down in a chair to eat it, is you won't get crumbs all over the floor," advised Nurse Jane kindly. And while the squirrel boy began to nibble his raisin cookie, Uncle Wiggily got ready to go out to seek an adventure.

But, all of a sudden, he heard Robbie crying down in the kitchen.

"What's the matter?" asked the bunny gentleman, sliding down the banister railing to get there more quickly. "Are you hurt?"

"No, but I—boo boo—I—now—I lost the raisin out of my cookie!" sobbed Robbie. "I—now—I was eating all around the edges, to save the raisin until last and then, all of a sudden, when I was ready to bite in and eat the raisin, it wasn't there."

Did the Bob Cat, or any of the bad chaps, pop in and take your raisin, Robbie?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No," chattered the little squirrel boy, "it just sort of fell out like, on the floor. But I've looked under the table and under the chairs and everywhere, and can't find my raisin. Boo hoo!"

"Don't cry, Robbie," spoke Nurse Jane. "I'll give you another cookie with a raisin in."

"All right," said Robbie, "but I want that raisin, too! It was such a nice raisin, so plump and big and sweet! I want my own raisin—boo hoo!" And he cried so badly that Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane got down on their hands and knees and helped the squirrel boy look for his dainty under chairs and tables.

"Ah, I have it!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggily, reaching for something in a far corner. But when he brought it out, all it proved to be was a lump of coal—black and hard—not a raisin at all.

But it is a good thing Uncle Wiggily found that piece of coal, for just then the Bob Cat tried to pop his nose in the kitchen. But the rabbit gentleman threw the lump of coal at the bad chap, hitting him on the nose, and helped the Cat cried, "Ouchie wowie!" and away he ran, taking his silly little tail with him.

And then, when Robbie got up from under the table, where he was looking for his raisin, Nurse Jane cried:

"Why, there's your raisin right in your cookie—or what is left of your cookie, Robbie." And, sure enough, there was the raisin!

"Oh, how ever did it get there?" asked Robbie. Nurse Jane never told him that, while he was under the table, she slipped another raisin from another cookie into the one Robbie had partly eaten. But after all what difference did it make, I ask you?

So Robbie had his raisin and his cookie and the Bob Cat was banged on the nose with the lump of coal and things turned out just as they should have. And if the Chinese laundryman will kindly iron the wrinkles from the elephant's trunk, the next story will be about Uncle Wiggily's hole.

CHANGES FOR ZONING LAW OPPOSED

Property Owners on Glendale Avenue Vote Against Industrial Idea

Property owners of Glendale avenue and the east side, who assembled at the Glendale Intermediate school last night, voted to oppose any change in the zoning ordinances which would permit light manufacturing concerns to locate factories on Glendale avenue. Any attempt to create industrial zones on Glendale avenue will meet with strong opposition, it was declared at the meeting.

E. E. Hitchcock acted as temporary chairman of the meeting. Members of committees, appointed at a recent meeting to check up on petitions, reported 90 per cent of the property owners on Glendale avenue are opposed to any industrial zones on the avenue. Petitions protesting such an action are being signed, it was reported.

Decline in Values
"After receiving such large assessments for the paving of Glendale avenue, some of the property owners feel they should get some immediate return," Chairman Hitchcock declared. "I feel it would be unwise at this time to change to industrial property. Glendale has a wonderful industrial section on the west side."

"The possibilities are that if we begin with light industries, the property owners will see a decline in values, as business property is always more valuable than industrial property. Glendale avenue will be to Glendale's what Alameda street is to Los Angeles, and the east side will become the Poyle Heights of Glendale."

L. T. Rowley said it has been his experience that in a properly zoned city through streets in the heart of the city are always zoned for business only. John Knox said it is the duty of the members of the City Council to carry out the wishes of the majority of people at all times, and that the majority in this case should be considered.

R. Belcher, in a brief address, said he is opposed to any hasty action in changing the zoning ordinances, especially in the heart of the city, without first giving due thought to the future growth, and the results if industries are located on Glendale avenue. W. E. Howell acted as temporary secretary.

Colorado

Patrons of Colorado school attending the P-T-A. meeting yesterday afternoon heard Mrs. Perry Rogers of the music department of Harvard high school, talk on "Music as a Contributing Factor to a Child's Education." She emphasized the fact that music is complete in itself in doing much along educational lines. She illustrated her talk by presenting a group of her pupils in musical numbers. One pupil gave two piano solos; the Harvard Glee club sang two songs; and Mary Ann Fleming entertained with violin numbers. Mrs. Frank Parr, president, reports that the Little Theatre Players are to present a benefit play for the association. Mrs. R. Ernest Tucker was named chairman of the nominating committee. The association voted a contribution to the pledge to the Y. M. C. A. building fund.

Pacific

Dr. A. G. Loomis, representing the Glendale Dental society, spoke yesterday afternoon at the meeting of Pacific P-T. A. on "Dental Hygiene and Food Values." Mrs. W. G. Lauderdale, president, presided. The school orchestra, directed by Miss Elsa Brennenman, gave two selections. The room count resulted in Miss Smith's room winning first place, and Miss Heideman's room second. Delegates were appointed to the First District convention, April 16 and 17 in Los Angeles. The nomination committee named includes Mesdames Stone, Lathrop, Dean Phillips, George Squires and Boland. Plans are under way for a "Fathers' Night" the fourth Friday in April. The week following Easter the association will conduct a paper drive. Members have been invited to be guests of Mrs. Dean Phillips, 207 West Chestnut street, the afternoon of April 8, to hear the radio program broadcast by the First District. Teachers of the school served tea.

GRASS PROVES SUCCESS

MOSCOW, April 3.—Fifteen new forms of fodder and twelve new types of vegetable have been introduced into Russian Armenia during the past two years by the Near East relief, which has conducted a campaign for improving agriculture of that country. American fodder grasses, such as alfalfa, have proved very successful. American experts are now experimenting with cultivation of tea in certain parts of Armenia.

Monsie Gets Portfolio Forced from Clementel been made untenable by Clementel's stand for inflation. Herriot hurried to the chamber when he heard what Clementel had said after demanding an immediate correction from the finance minister, followed him to the tribune with a speech which left Clementel in a position to resign.

De Monsie was named in his place. His name will be presented to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon. Before the cabinet meeting today at which President Doumergue himself presided, the new finance minister's views were presented by Minister of the Interior Chaumets in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

"De Monsie is in complete agreement with Premier Herriot and the remaining ministers on the question of financial policy," Minister Chaumets said. "The keynote of this policy is not inflation for government needs, but the emission of increased currency for commercial requirements."

"The government will supply the necessary funds by a new appeal to the country and by increasing taxation, but there will be no inflation."

sharp differences of opinion between Premier Herriot and Clementel. Loucheur's Petit Journal and Echo D'Paris explained that Clementel demanded increases in income taxes of from 50 to 100 per cent and increasing the amount of bank notes whereas the premier plans a tax on capital. Capital levy was the solution of Quotidien, which said: "Premier Herriot's reforms are ready and they provide the equitable participation of all classes in the national charges. If the alternative is necessary some day between insidious bankruptcy by inflation on one hand and capital levy on the other, all democrats will choose the honorable and just solution of a capital levy."

LEGAL BATTLE FOR ESTATE PLANNED

Two Women, One In City, Another In Hanford, Claim Same Man

Two women, both claiming to be the legal widow of William H. Mouthrop, Hanford business man and city trustee, were preparing today to enter a legal battle for his $15,000 estate and a $7000 life insurance policy. Mrs. J. L. Mouthrop, 831 East Colorado street, Glendale, who was wife No. 1 and who asserts she was his only legal mate, announced that she has retained Attorney J. W. Ferguson, Hanford, to start proceedings at once.

Efforts are being made by Fred Chilton, Mouthrop's brother-in-law, to find a will believed to have been left by him. Mrs. Mouthrop No. 2 was made the beneficiary in the life insurance policy, but the local woman believes that she and her family are entitled to the entire estate.

"We never heard of a second marriage until we were called to Hanford at the time of his death," said Mrs. Mouthrop today. "When we learned of the existence of the second woman, we decided to settle the affairs in the most agreeable way. But after reading press reports to the effect that she planned to obtain possession of the whole estate, I am now willing to give the facts."

Mrs. Mouthrop No. 1 was married to Mouthrop twenty-nine years ago in New York. She never obtained a divorce, nor has she ever tried to get one, she declared today. With four children the family came to California in 1912. "Mr. Mouthrop made one trip east to visit our relatives," the local woman said. "He roamed around and worked in other places, always returning occasionally to visit his family. He was here in Glendale very recently. I have never left the state since coming directly from New York."

Attend Funeral
With her three sons and daughter, Mrs. Mouthrop attended the funeral at Hanford, which was private and was arranged to meet the desires of both women. Claiming to be the legal widow, Mrs. Mouthrop No. 1 will file suit to obtain the $7000 life insurance policy and estate in the King county court at Hanford. Mouthrop was a printer and owned a valuable plant. He was a city trustee at the time of his death.

Mrs. Mouthrop No. 2 is still residing in the rented home that was occupied by herself and the man she believed to have been her legal husband. She has retained counsel, it is said, to fight the claims of the local woman.

MISSING AMERICAN
LONDON, April 3.—According to dispatches reaching this city, the Russian authorities have ordered a new search for Clayton Krantz of Perkaskie, Pa., a Near East relief worker who has been missing for three years. He disappeared while engaged in refugee work in Southern Russia. Rumors have recently reached Moscow that he is living in Siberia. Krantz was a student in Goshen College, Indiana, when he volunteered for relief work in Russia.

Here's Chance For Pair of Palm Trees

Someone can have two palm trees for replanting for the mere trouble of removing them from the site of the new Baptist church, northwest corner of Louise street and Wilson avenue. The trees will be dug up by steam shovel, R. D. Gould of the church building board said, and anyone wishing to remove them from the premises should communicate with him. The trees are of the variety that have been suggested for the parkway along Chevy Chase drive and the high school grounds. Mr. Gould resides at 505 Salem street.

CLUB WOMEN IN WEEKLY MEETING

Business Session, Program Feature of Thursday Club Gathering

Reflecting the progressive spirit of Glendale women's clubs, the Thursday afternoon club, which met yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, 1423 South Brand boulevard, held a business session to consider club activities, and enjoyed an entertaining program.

That the club is enjoying the regime of Mrs. Carrie Campbell, president, and her staff of officers, is evidenced in the spirit of co-operation marking every endeavor undertaken by the organization. This was noted yesterday, when with the appointment of the nomination committee and straw ballot, opinions were heard on every hand favoring the reelection of members of the present board.

Miss Claire Sullivan, of Los Angeles, a pupil of Anne Kavanah, entertained with a program of dramatic readings and character sketches. Miss Sullivan, who has an unusually pleasing personality, delightedly entertaining in her interpretations of widely differing characters included:

Characterizations
"The Widow's Veil," a reading from the drama, with interpretation of various characters; recitation, "El Camino Real," by John Steven McGroarty; a group of Italian character sketches, "The Lonesome Honeymoon," "The Italian King," "Carlotto's Indecision" (T. A. Daley); "The Lonely House," "Romance" and "Roads," poems by Joyce Kilmer; an Irish sketch, "A Fool's Philosophy" (St. John Irvine); "Dry Valley Johnson," a western story from the pen of O. Henry; "Traver's First Hunt," an eastern story, by Richard Harding Davis; "Kitty's Graduation" (T. A. Daley).

Mrs. Carrie Campbell, president, conducted a board meeting. Mrs. Al Vaulet led the salute to the flag and singing of "America." Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. C. Newton. Mrs. Fanny Jones was appointed to act as special chairman for book week, April 19 to 25; Mrs. S. J. Vantine, Mrs. L. C. Denman and Mrs. Wm. C. Mary were appointed on the nominating committee, to report at the meeting the first Thursday in May. A social hour followed the program and refreshments of tea and home-made cakes were served by members of the hospitality committee, Mrs. McNaughton Barnes, Mrs. E. J. Morgan, Mrs. F. L. Doggett and Mrs. Gaither.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. C. Newton, 1216 South Boynton, April 16.

Fall, Sinclair, Doheny Win Court Decision

government's criminal case against Fall, Sinclair and Doheny collapses.

The indictment which linked Doheny's son, Edward L. Doheny, Jr., and alleged bearer of the "little black satchel" was also quashed on the same grounds as the others.

Two Courses Open

In the absence of Messrs. Pomerehne and Roberts, the special oil counsel, other government attorneys would make no statement concerning the government's future course. It was said, however, that two courses are open—the government can appeal from Justice McCoy's ruling on the present indictment or it can accept the ruling and obtain new indictments on the same evidence, taking care to eliminate the irregularities which led to the overturning of present instruments.

Justice McCoy's opinion was handed down in the case of the two Dohenys and Fall, but in his opinion he alluded to the separate indictment of Sinclair on similar charges, and the quashing of Sinclair's indictment along with the rest was included in the court's order.

Upholds Contentions

The court upheld two contentions of the government and two of counsel for Fall, Sinclair and Doheny.

The challenge of the oil men that Pagan was unlawfully in the jury room was upheld on the ground that the Senate resolution authorized the appointment of special counsel to prosecute the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills cases had taken away the privilege of the attorney-general or of any of his assistants to appear before the grand jury. This was the chief reason that motivated McCoy in quashing the indictment.

Policeman Expected To Be Indicted As Slayer

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—The county grand jury today began the final phase of the investigation into the deaths of Mrs. Irene C. Hickey and her 2-year-old son, which was expected to lead to the indictment of Patrolman James J. Hickey, who is alleged to have shot and killed his wife and son last Sunday.

Fishing, Hunting Ban Advocated In Mexico

SAN DIEGO, April 3.—Reciprocal fish and game laws between the United States and Mexico which would mean that American hunters henceforth would be deprived of the long enjoyed privilege of hunting and fishing at any time of the year in Lower California, are sought by Dr. Jose G. Parres, sub-secretary in the department of agriculture and development in the cabinet of President Calles of Mexico, who was in San Diego en route to Ensenada and other Baja California points.

Three Inmates of Home For Aged Die Of Gas

NEW YORK, April 3.—Three inmates of the German evangelist home for the aged in Brooklyn were killed by illuminating gas today because the windows of their rooms were closed. The dead: Adam Meuser, 75; Michael Memerich, 74, and Julius Henghitter, 77. All were widowers.

ROAD BATTLE HALTED IN CAPITOL

Action On Proposed 3-Cent
Gas Tax At Standstill
Waiting On Board

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—Consideration of the 3-cent gasoline tax and other methods of financing new highway construction in California during the ensuing biennium was at a standstill today, the Legislature looking expectantly to the State Highway commission for the next move in the road battle.

The highway commissioners have thus far given no indication of whether they will heed the "request" of the Senate that they appear before the revenue and taxation committee of the upper house and give such testimony as may be requested.

Refund Anticipated

The resolution of request adopted by the Senate anticipated a possible refusal of the commissioners to appear voluntarily, however, and a proviso was inserted that if the highway board members failed to answer the summons the secretary of the Senate should exercise the body's power of subpoena. The commissioners have until April 6 to make up their minds whether to appear peacefully or as technical prisoners.

The major problems before the legislative houses, with the exception of the highway financing program, are rapidly being disposed of.

River Pact Passed

Two of the controversial questions were settled late yesterday, the Senate passing the Finney resolution ratifying the Colorado river pact with reservations, and the Assembly defeating a constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Charles H. Deuel of Chico to make the members of the state railroad commission elective and subject to recall.

The railroad commission was snowed under, the opposition mustering 50 votes against 21 favoring. Opponents of the act charged that instead of renewing the commission from politics it would turn the railroad board into "a political football to be kicked about during every campaign."

FRANC DROPS

LONDON, April 3.—The French franc dropped two points at the opening of the international exchange market here today as a result of the threatened crisis in the Herriot cabinet.

Banks are now guarded by machine guns.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Congressman Walter F. Lineberger was a guest of the California Legislature last Thursday. The writer personally interviewed the representative of the ninth district, in which Glendale is located.

The Long Beach man verified the report that he will be a candidate for the United States Senate. For the present, however, he is not actively campaigning, believing it his duty to attend to business at hand in the House of Representatives.

Lineberger was introduced to many of the state solons by Senator Cadet Taylor of Pomona. It was very apparent that he is in no way allied with interests other than those which are solid in their Republican support.

There is a bill before the Legislature permitting Los Angeles and the Owens valley communities to get together on reparations for losses sustained through the diversion of aqueduct water.

While the measure probably will not accomplish that which is desired, it brings to light the grave question of actual injury inflicted by the metropolis in returning to the desert thousands of acres of fertile lands.

District Attorney Jess Hession of Inyo county told the writer of the tribulation of his people. The farmers having been bought out by the city for their rights, the towns have suffered by loss of population. Business houses have been closed. Schools have been reduced to but a ghostlike attendance. And real property has decreased as much as 90 per cent in value, Hession states.

As an officer sworn to enforce the law the district attorney has done everything in his power to preserve the peace, but he fears bloodshed in the valley unless Los Angeles does something in the very near future which will permit the removal of the people there without having them walk out—begged by the prosperity of the larger city.

Physical violence already has been resorted to. More of it may be expected unless the state government brings the city of Los Angeles to a realization of the plight of the Owens valley people, Hession believes.

And this one man, whose grandfather built the first sod fence in the valley, hopes that the day shall never come when he will have to prosecute his friends—and yet he promises that he will, even though they insanely commit crimes because of their belief in the injustice being wrought.

Harold Bell Wright might well write on a theme the opposite to "The Winning of Barbara Worth" for Owens valley, which is filled with drama so poignant as to command the attention of any writer.

EL CENTRO, Cal., April 3.—Parker Singh, a Hindu, today stood charged with the deaths of Victor R. Sterling and J. B. Hager, two counts of murder having been returned against him by the Imperial county grand jury. A coroner's jury also held Singh responsible for the two men's death.

Singh is reported to have made an offer to the grand jury to take his own life, provided he first be permitted a chance to shoot Wm. Thornberg. When Singh shot Sterling and Hager near Calipatria Wednesday afternoon he also tried to shoot Thornberg, it was said, but his revolver jammed and Thornberg escaped.

PLOT TO DISABLE OIL SHIP FOUND

Suspect Is Under Suspicion
As Navy Probe Is Set In Motion

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—With one man said to be under suspicion, an official naval investigation was started here today into an alleged plot to disable the navy oil tanker Cuyama late Thursday.

Commander Henry A. Orr, captain of the Cuyama, who heads the investigation, said that, while an investigation will be held, action in the matter probably would not be taken until later.

The officers refused to give out the name of the suspected man. Finger prints on an empty can that had contained emery dust is said to have led to the conclusion. Damage to the Cuyama is said to have been small, and the ship was able to continue today with its schedule without interruption.

The committee tabled $100,000 to abate the citrus white fly and $10,000 for grape standardization experiments and held over for consideration many other measures. Judges' salary bills will be considered Friday night, it was announced by Chairman Robert McPherson.

H. Robert Braden, budget maker of the State Board of Control, in discussing Governor Richardson's attitude toward appropriations, said:

"I know it is not his intention to sign bills until there is nothing of the estimated $14,500,000 net surplus left in the state treasury. Appropriation bills before the Legislature total $35,000,000."

Earl Sande To Become Assistant To Trainer

NEW YORK, April 3.—It was stated today on reliable authority that Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, had ridden his last race because of serious injuries sustained in a fall at Saratoga last August. Denial was made, however, that Sande had had a "split" with Sam Hildreth, trainer for Sinclair's Rancocas stable, in the colors of which Sande rode to his greatest fame. It was said that when the jockey's riding contract expires at the end of the 1925 season he will become Hildreth's assistant.

Meets Tragedy Of Youth

HUBERT PRUETT, who joined the St. Louis Browns, after leaving the University of Missouri, had such a good curve ball that he twirled his way out of the majors, the strain of throwing his fadeaway being too much on his arm.

Tommy Cello and Young Datto, lightweights, will hold down the main spot at Hollywood tonight, after several changes were made in the bill during the week. Mushy Callahan and Pat Mills were signed for the main event, but Pat developed a case of housemaid's knee, or something along that line, and Tom Gallery, actor-machmaker, had to change his initial card. Tom fixed up another main event, but something else happened, so it's going to be Cello and Datto, if nothing turns up during the day.

Ad Allegri and Sailor Billy Vincent will box six or less rounds in the semi-windup. Buck Curtis and Young Papke are booked for six rounds of mauling. Young Danny and Young Sally, which answers the long-standing

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Written for The Evening News

Three years ago this spring Hubert Pruett, slight of build, young, ambitious and earnest, joined the St. Louis Browns. He was an unknown—fresh from the campus of the University of Missouri.

He had delivered his "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy" and felt that he would find baseball fame as thickly. Fame did rush upon him. He lacked a good steamy ball. His slight build prevented him from putting "smoke" behind his delivery.

But he had a "hook" that was weird, baffling, tantalizing—and humiliating to everyone from Babe Ruth down. In fact, Ruth suffered greater humiliation at the hands of this little collegian than anyone else. Babe's fame as a slugger was greater. His fall was greater.

Pruett fanned the mighty Ruth just eleven out of thirteen times. Does that give some idea of his skill with that curve ball?

Ty Cobb, keenest of batters and quickest to solve a pitcher's weakness and dash his hopes, was puzzled for days with Pruett's delivery.

Cobb "Reads" His End
While Cobb studied the delivery, however, he made one prediction. "He'll go big this year but that will just about end his pitching days. Next year will find him nursing a lame arm—and one that won't come back," said Ty.

Today as the Browns and the members of fifteen other big league clubs get under way for another season Hubert Pruett waits for the minor league season on the Pacific coast to open. He has fulfilled Cobb's prediction. He has "curved" himself out of the big show. And most critics believe it to be for all time.

He won seven and lost seven games for the Browns in 1922. That does not indicate his worth, however. He was not used as a regular. His wide hook was called in when the safest way of stemming the tide was to have him wrap it around the batter's necks in the closing innings. Some of his rescue stunts were hopeless affairs and Blackie Londos and Dave Taylor will open the show with four rounds of mitt-slinging.

Like Matty's Fadeaway
The ball he throws is much like Christy Mathewson's fadeaway. The peculiar "hook" is obtained by giving the ball a certain quick twist with the wrist as it is released. It is this snap which saps the flexibility and strength of the wrist and arm muscles.

Naturally the tendency of batters when facing a curve ball pitcher is to wait him out. "See if he can keep 'em over" is the constant advice. This forced Pruett to work harder to turn back each batter.

Mathewson found that his fadeaway was affecting his arm. He used it only in the pinches. He could mix it with a bullet ball and a slow one, however. He had a comprehensive knowledge of batters to help him in his later years.

Pruett may come back. Scores of pitchers have gone to the minors after a year or two in the big show and pitched their way back to big time. But their first failure has been due mainly to lack of experience or ability to stand the gaff. Pruett went back with a "dead" arm. Can he revive it? Let's hope he can.

SNAPPY BASEBALL GAME FOR SUNDAY

Classy Hats And Merchants
Will Tangle On Local Ball Diamond

By A. S. HALL

Of The Evening News Staff.
Manager M. R. Bacom of the Glendale Merchants baseball team has picked out a hard bunch of players for his proteges to overcome when the local squad clashes Sunday afternoon with the Berry Classy Hatters at the San Fernando road ball park. It will be the second game for the newly-organized Merchants, the first resulting in a victory for the home lads over the Buick Autos.

The Classy Hatters have played thirty-four games during the winter season and all but six of these games were registered on the win side of the score sheet. All of which indicates that the Classy Hatters are evidently classy batters, baserunners, fielders, or what have you?

To offset the advantage of long experience, such as the visitors have tucked under the classy top-pieces, Manager Bacom will have "Red" Konkright, a hurler who knows his horsehide, do part of the mound work for the locals. Konkright was with the Danville, Ill., Three-Eye club last season and pitched the team into second place. He was so good that Memphis wants him to do the same or better for them in the Southern league this season, and he expects to strut his stuff below the Mason and Dixon line in 1925.

New Grandstand

Added to his record for last season, Konkright picked off a new bunch of laurel leaves for his wreath of glory during the winter season by winning seventeen out of twenty games while playing with the Burbank team. "Red" will be aided and abetted in the pitching duty by Walter Hydlir mound phenomenon of the local team, who has a good record in the bigger loops.

A new grandstand has been constructed to take the place of the one burned several months ago, Manager Bacom has announced, and there will be plenty of seats for all who attend. The free gate proposition has gone by the boards, so fans are reminded to have a little loose vampus of the realm jingling in their pockets as they approach the wicket. The admit will not be excessive, considering the brand of baseball that is promised.

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

LAKELAND, April 3.—Is there a 300 batter in the house? To jump all the members of the Cleveland ball club, bow profoundly, and say: "We are it."

"But which of you is it?"

"We are all it. When it comes to batting, 300 as a ball team we are double it."

"And so they are," chimes in Tris Speaker. "That noise you heard coming along the pike, which sounded like the distant roll of thunder, was only these guys scraping their bats. Every time we have morning practice they call Lakeland up from Orlando, where the Reds are training, and ask where is the explosion."

There are big three hundreds and little three hundreds on the Cleveland team, but they are all three hundreds. Parade around that outfield and observe it.

On one side, Jamieson, who has become the batting moloch of the American league. Next to him, Speaker, whose very name stands for hitting and outfielding that has not been excelled since baseball graduated from baby clothes. Then Cliff Lee, if he is chosen, who has been a National leaguer most of his life and was taken on by Cleveland last year because they wanted a man who could hit frequently, regardless of his fielding.

As assistants to this trio of flail wielders, there are McNulty, Stephenson, Summa and Hendricks. All of them wield their bats with such wickedness as to make pitchers old men ahead of their time.

That's the kind of club this Cleveland club is. Infield and outfield are loaded with dynamite, nitroglycerine, TNT, all the other explosives in the galaxy, and when they get busy together there is no pitcher who is safe against them. If they can be kept busy all of the time they will have every team in the American league on the defensive by the end of May. Were all of them as consistent in the batting as Jamieson and Speaker, this team could drive its way to a pennant through sheer brute force.

On the infield there will be George Burns, Fawcett, Joey Sewell and Lutzke. It is not the flashiest infield in the American league, yet the hunch is there. Lutzke is the weakest batter of the lot. But he can spread himself over more third base territory than any of his American league contemporaries, and he is doubly agile this year because he has been worried as to whether there might be a third baseman to succeed him some day—not because his fielding has yielded but he can't hit as powerfully as the other boys do. Cleveland has two good catchers, and one of them, Myatt, is a walkover.

If Cleveland has 300 batters in chorus, it also has pitchers who can sing, and who may sing such a blast this year that even the managerial ears of Tris Speaker will be tingling with more than usual joy. Big Uhle, the "Little" Amos Rustle of the American league, fell very flat in 1924. He has recovered his balance. Perry Smith, who was once with Brooklyn and knows how it feels, is in better trim than he ever has been and has been pitching that way. Shaute, the wonder of the American league last season, looks as if he may be a double Shaute. Roy is likely to come through and show something. Edwards, a left-hander of grand stature, who won four games right off the reel last season, and then tripped on his toe-plate or something else and couldn't pitch again, is in better condition than he was a year ago.

Suppose this crowd of pitchers discovers that it can go as well as any one, or two of them ever did. What then, for the Cleveland club, between their big bats and their big pitchers?

Make room for the juggernaut, you other clubs of the American league! If all of this happens the steam roller will get you even if you do watch out.

STANFORD BOXERS MEET 'GRIZZLIES'

Brother Of Jimmy Duffy Is One Of Redshirts' Mitt
Men On List

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—There will be plenty of action tomorrow night in the Southern Branch gym as the boxers from the Grizzly institution play host to their older brothers from Berkeley in the final inter-collegiate boxing contests of the year. Coach Stan Jones is bringing a powerful bunch of mite fighters south with him, and is figuring on getting a little revenge for the beating the Grizzly outfit handed him last year.

Among the Berkeley battlers are two very well-known amateurs, Captain Kenny Gow, 145 pounds, and Sammy Gold, 155. Sammy is the brother of Oakland Jimmy Duffy, who is considered the best welterweight on the coast. Reports from the north indicate Sammy packs a terrible wallop. Captain Gow, who has cleaned up on everything his weight in the Bay region, is one of the heaviest in college ranks. The Grizzly scrappers are in the best of shape, and figure to be stronger than they were against Stanford, when they fought the Cardinals to a 3-3 tie. Captain Sid Wood, the hard socker, will be unable to compete, but Mitt Munroe will take his place, meeting the highly-touted Sammy Gold. This bout will be the main event of the program, which will include seven bouts, the fighters ranging from 115 pounds to heavy-weights.

LEAGUE TRACK MARK SHATTERED AT MEET

'Seedy' Maydwell, Glendale, Runs 440 In
52 Seconds Flat, Cutting 1 3-10
Seconds From Present Record

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

Old Father Time put in a strenuous afternoon yesterday on Broadway field. After the Central league preliminaries had closed the old gentleman with the sickle found that things had gone badly his way and that although the annual loop meet was not yet over, already one record had been sent scattering to the four winds, that another harmless mark had been tied and that many more are in immediate danger Saturday, when the thinly-clad athletes will go at it hammer-and-tongs for an afternoon of record-cracking.

"Seedy" Maydwell stepped out in front and beat his rival, Kerchoff of Covina, to the tape by a goodly margin, clipping no less than a full second and three-tenths from the Central league time of long standing.

In the second heat of the 440, Glogee of Covina, who is expected to provide one of the big drawing cards Saturday when he toes the mark with Maydwell in the 440 and 880, clipped one-tenth of one second from the league record of 53.3 which had just been smashed.

Another Tied. In the first heat of the century a gentleman from Monrovia named Bowman tied the league mark of 10.2 by beating Purdy of Glendale to the tape with a wild burst of speed at the finish. When the pick from Glendale met this boy Saturday the loop records will certainly be on pretty weak knees.

Although the Dynamiters copped a goodly sum of qualifying paces, they did not do quite as well as they expected, all of which goes to show that the meet tomorrow will provide plenty of thrills and chills to the spectators who sail forth to Broadway field. Glendale was nearly snowed out in the high hurdles, Howard Rossington being the only Red and Black hurdler to place in the two heats.

Finish Is Close. Purdy got ample revenge on Bowman in the 220 by besting his Wildcat rival at the finish by a hair's breadth. Bowman came in with an unexpected finish and almost caught Purdy unawares.

No preliminaries were held in the field events, but the Dynamiters are not feeling the least bit backward about taking their share of markers in weights and

SOUTHERN BRANCH TO PLAY L. A. A. C.

Last Practice Game Before
Season Opens To Be Staged Tomorrow

By BILL BARNETT

Written for The Evening News. The Southern Branch baseball team will take on the Los Angeles Athletic club nine tomorrow afternoon on the Grizzlies' diamond in the last big practice game before the southern conference season starts. The Grizzly horseshoe squad goes to Whittier next week for its first conference engagement, and Coach Works is anxious to have his inexperienced outfit fit get as much baseball under their belts as possible, as the Grizzly infield contains but one veteran, and the playing of the inner works was very good during their two contests with Stanford.

Coach Works has a nice pitching staff, with Rogers, Brock and Lindgren working as first stringers. Brock is a southpaw, and possesses a classy change of pace besides plenty of curves. Brock is expected to take Montgomery's place as the star of the Grizzly hurling corps this year. Lindgren did some chucking last year, beating Redlands and Pomona and should be in for a swell season.

Rogers is the new member of the staff, coming up from last season's freshmen team. The big boy held the Stanford sluggers to four bingles in the game he worked, but two costly miscues by his fielding mates lost the game for him by a 2 to 1 score. Rogers will probably start on the mound tomorrow.

Catchers Needed

Loren Peak and Art Hoge have been dividing the catching work, and so far neither one has shown the stuff that Joe Uman exhibited last year. Hoge can't hit, while Peak has not had the experience behind the bat. Hoge will probably start the season at the receiving position, with Peak roosting on first base, which is another sore spot in the Grizzly machine.

Buzz Ackerman held down the first sack last year, and Clark has been working there in a few games this season. Clark looks like a million one day and a ruble the next, being the most consistent in and outer ever seen. Peak is more dependable and is a first class man with the stick, which counts for plenty. Peak will probably be on the initial sack when the conference season rolls around. McDougal at second has been showing lots of class, both in the field and at bat, and with Gene Patz at short a classy combination around the middle cushion. Al Wagner at third should be the best third sacker in the conference, as the speed merchant has been clouting the ball and his fielding is 100 per cent proof.

Aaron Wagner in left and Captain Turney in center are fixtures, but Hansen and Burns are still fighting it out for the right field position. Burns is a heavy hitter, but not the fielder that Hansen is. Both players will get into a few games before the season ends.

Tennis Stars To Play Matches At Alhambra

Four singles and two doubles matches have been arranged for the two-day tennis tournament to be held at Alhambra tomorrow and Sunday at the Midwick Country club, in which William T. Tilden II, national singles champion, and William Johnson, San Francisco, will participate. Tilden will meet Johnson in two singles and two doubles matches during the course of the tournament.

Other luminaries of the tennis world who will play are Miss Mary K. Browne, runner-up to Miss Helen Wills in the national women's singles last year. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, former national singles title holder, Clarence Griffin and Ray Casey, both of San Francisco, and Walter Westbrook.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

When some of the Radio players and some of the Legion players failed to show up last night, the scheduled game between the two teams at the Harvard High school was postponed. Two teams were made up from among the players present, and a practice game was held, the augmented Radios winning over the increased Legion team by a score that resembled the revolutions per minute on one of Harry Miller's supercharged race chariots. Tomorrow on the sport page of The Glendale Evening News will appear the standings, results of the past week, schedule for next week, and a little dope on the outcome of the remaining games.

Polish Priest Is Held Charged With Lashing

MOSCOW, April 3.—As a result of Soviet protest the Polish consul at Minsk announced today he had turned over to the Soviet the Polish priest Ussat, who will be taken to Leningrad for trial on a charge of lashing young girls.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925. NEW YORK, April 3.—There is a chance that two far west rowing crews may enter the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river this summer. The Pacific coast three mile regatta will be held on April 11 and it has been understood that the winner only will come east in June. If Washington wins this will probably be the case.

But if the California ship crosses the line first on the Oakland Estuary it is not at all likely that the Huskies will accept this defeat as depriving them of the right to journey to the Hudson and defend their championship title.

Form in April is not always a postulate of form in June, and because of poor rowing in the Washington sweep-swingers are four weeks behind their schedule.

Then, too, the oarsmen have been deeply involved in quarterly examinations and this has played havoc with the daily turnout of the men.

Russell Callow, the coach, will be able to start a real drive for the race against the Bears. Not until then will the varsity eight definitely be picked and with the flunking of one or two important oars the situation is certain to be desperate.

California, on the other hand has had ideal rowing conditions all winter and has been working along in great form. Whereas the Californians have been rowing the three mile route rough water on Lake Washington has kept the Huskies to short distances. California has a new shell and Washington will meet the Bears in an old one.

Therefore, all in all, Washington will go south this month in no mood of over-confidence to say the least a. Coach Callow thinks that if victory comes it will be a matter of feet.

If defeated, Washington, in view of all that has been set forth, will not be inclined to regard the test as conclusive but will proceed with the work of development, aiming for the Poughkeepsie regatta, where the Huskies have a national title to defend and a perfect right to defend it, irrespective of what happens in an early season regatta.

With California the victor on the west coast and sending a crew east to strive for national honors on the Hudson and with Washington on hand to defend her laurels the Poughkeepsie Regatta would gain materially in interest.

PICTURE STAR IS DUE AT ORPHEUM

Elliott Dexter to Be Seen
Next Week in Plays;
Nan on Bill

A person cannot help but go to the Orpheum every week. If you miss a week you always regret your action for the next fifty-two weeks to come. Next week's bill is one of those line-ups which is bomb-proof. Instead of bringing one headliner, the Orpheum has placed two top-notchers on the bill for the week opening Monday matinee, April 6th. And that doesn't mean that the rest of the acts are just ordinary. The menu looks something like this:

Nan Halperin comes here after an absence of a number of years. Miss Halperin is dainty little girl who sings little girl songs and sometimes she sings very wise songs. She is returning to the two-day from a successful engagement in musical comedy work. Elliott Dexter, movie star, will be seen in "A Play Without a Name." He appears in person, taking the leading role. Mr. Dexter wrote this play himself and in conjunction with the Orpheum is offering $50 for a name for his play. So beside seeing what promises to be a whale of a play everybody has a chance at the half century prize. And the honor which goes with naming a play.

Balance of Bill
Harry Webb comes with an aggregation of musicians not a jazz band but guaranteed sure to please.

Ed Pressler and Blanch Klais, a lively duo in song, dance and pantomime, are added.

Stan Kavanagh, direct from Australia with comedy, juggling, is hailed as a "whiz" in his line.

Harris and Holley are the "push 'em" and "pull 'em" duo—whatever that is. Key and Lorene Sterling have a sterling act, they claim, and Zoe Delphine and company appear "In a Paris Cafe." Topics of the Day and a Newsreel are the added features.

Mike McTigue Anxious To Meet Tom Gibbons

NEW YORK, April 3.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, declared today that he would be ready to defend his title within six weeks against the best challenger available. He named Tom Gibbons, Gene Tunney, Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney as preferred opponents.

PATHETIC SPOTS
FOUND IN 'MANNA'

Youngster In Current Play
By Dobinson Players
Incites Sympathy

Charles "Junior" Johnson, who does the spoiled child in "Manna" at the Glendale Playhouse this week, and succeeds so thoroughly in getting the goat of O'Brien, one of the principal characters, is really a very lovable youngster. And he likes "Nellie" O'Brien, the part played by Edward Peil.

The action of the play requires him to go up to the chair in which O'Brien is sitting and stoop to examine the ankle of the crippled soldier, whose legs have been shot away, and who has steel underpinning. At the first rehearsal he said: "But I don't want to do that. It might make him feel bad." Which is precisely the effect achieved by the incident in the play, as O'Brien's angry words show. Mr. Butler, Peil and other members of the company had to reassure the youngster that it was all right and only acting before he would go on. Junior is already being taught for the stage and has considerable acting ability. It is believed he will go far, because he is breathing in the tradition of the traditions of the stage at his most impressionable age.

"Manna" Going Big
"Manna" is making a deep impression on those who see it, as the stacks of letters received daily by Mrs. Dobinson attest. "This is very pleasing to us," she said today, "and I hope that everyone will express his opinion. I think it is a wonderful play; I never tire of it. But perhaps there are others who do not think so."

"I wish our friends would write to us or the newspapers and say just what scene or character of the play impresses them the most. We want to know what people are thinking, so that we can be guided in the selection of future plays."

"What the public wants is more or less of a mystery in the theatrical world, and if we can just get a glimpse of the direction in which the public's collective mind is working, we can proceed more intelligently in choosing the plays."

Patrons are again reminded that the vacant lot in rear of the Stombs Realty Co., across Lexington Road from the theatre, is available for parking. They may drive in at the entrance at the lower end of the lot farthest from Central avenue. The lot is of sufficient size to take care of perhaps forty cars and this number off the streets will relieve the congestion and danger around the corner of Central and Lexington before and after the show.

In the audience Wednesday night were Mr. Kemper, of the New York theatrical firm of Wag- enhals & Kemper, and a party of five guests. After the show Mr. Kemper spoke enthusiastically of "Manna" and showed an interest in the play and its author which may result in its speedy transfer to the east.

$25,000 Gems

Jewels used in "The Plunderer" at Glendale Theatre today, guarded by police; exceptional acts.

Guarded by two uniformed policemen, a pearl necklace valued at $25,000 was brought to the William Fox west coast studios in Hollywood to be used in several important scenes in George Archambault's production, "The Plunderer," opening today for two days at the Glendale theatre.

The pearl necklace plays a vital part in the story. It was the property in the story of the girl loved by Frank Mayo, the lead. It is found in the Gold Cross mine by Tom Santschi, the heavy, and unlawfully kept by him from Eddie Phillips, juvenile son of Frank Mayo's boyhood sweetheart.

The finding of the necklace and subsequent closeup shots induced the William Fox officials to rent a valuable necklace from Feagans, Los Angeles jewelers. Two representatives of the jewelers brought it to the studio and remained on the set during the day, taking the necklace back later in the afternoon. During the entire time it was also guarded by special policemen.

Great Vaudeville

An especially fine vaudeville bill has been provided for today and Saturday, with four stellar entertainers, in "Melody and Rhythm," Dick Maxwell, Irvin Fields, Marjorie Lee and Mary Allison, known as Maxwell Fields & Co., are four entertainers whose merits are hard to equal. They will offer a whirlwind of song, dance and instrumental numbers.

"A Vaudeville Melange" presented by Prevost & Goulet is exactly the proper billing for this act. They mix up comedy acrobatics with some clever stepping and for good measure pour in a line of better that goes over big. Possessors of pleasing personalities, Harry Maxwell and Will Stone will be heard in songs and comedy chatter. Dave Rafael is recognized as one of the leading ventriloquists of the era. Austin Delaney, two of vaudeville's cleverest colored performers, will offer a realistic sketch of two colored bell hops, which they aptly term the "Synecopated Hotel."

MUSIC IS MISSING
WHEN FILM MADE

Thomas Meighan Breaks All
Traditions Working In
'Coming Through'

Thomas Meighan has shattered one of the oldest traditions of motion picture studio life. When the famous Paramount star worked at the Long Island plant in "Coming Through," which is playing at the Gateway Theatre tonight and Saturday, the little string orchestra at the edge of the set was missing. There wasn't any music. Only the whir of the camera cranks as Meighan and his associates began to weave the thread of the story in pantomime.

No music! Since the early Biograph era of film production music has been regarded as the sine qua non of screen emotion. Sine qua non, as you will learn from almost any cross word puzzle, means the indispensable thing. Without music it has been considered almost impossible to register depth of feeling and transcendent emotion. Viennese waltzes for gay romance; the Harlequin serenade for tears and pathos, etc., etc.

And now, with a single sweeping gesture Thomas Meighan has discarded the orchestral accompaniment. Why? "There is a good deal of bunk in this theory of musical inspiration," Mr. Meighan explained. "We don't carry an orchestra around with us in real life. Down in Wall street the big bankers and business executives never have their music to help them through an important financial crisis. Inspiration and imagination come from within. Music may help in some emotional scenes, but it is my personal hunch that it is better to rely upon your own intelligence."

There is a more practical reason, too, Mr. Meighan explained, for dispensing with the orchestra. Musicians take up valuable space around the set. You have to direct them as well as your cast, give them a starting signal, and confer with them on the kind of music to be played. All that takes time.

CITY COUNCIL

PAUL S. TRAXLER
TELLS PLATFORM

Candidate For City Council
Office Gives Position
On Civic Matters

Paul S. Traxler, candidate for city council, in a letter which he requested The Glendale Evening News to publish, outlined his platform as follows:

Editor The Evening News: I believe that a councilman should be representative of the people of all sections of the city, and not of any particular group.

CIVIL SERVICE—I believe that civil service would greatly improve the efficiency of the various city departments, especially police and fire departments, and I will work to have such a law enacted.

PUBLIC WELFARE—Glendale greatly needs better school facilities; public playgrounds for children, public rest rooms in the busy sections of the city. Better police protection in residential districts. Improvement of traffic facilities so as to give better protection to citizens and children along San Fernando road. Thorough investigation of waste disposal system, having in mind, both efficiency and economy in arriving at method of disposal.

INDUSTRIES—We have suitable industrial locations along San Fernando road, in and adjacent to Glendale, where trackage is suitable and factories would be more segregated from the city proper.

TAXATION—I believe that taxes can be materially reduced by a conservative economical program. Buying all the material in Glendale whenever possible, taking into consideration price, quality and responsibility of firm purchased from.

LAW ENFORCEMENT—Favor law enforcement rather than burdening ourselves with many new laws. Minor offenses should be treated with consideration to the offender. Major offenses should be prosecuted without favor.

EMPLOYMENT—Glendale labor should be employed in all civic improvements.

PAUL S. TRAXLER.

GLENDALE ARTIST
EXHIBITING WORK

Nell Walker Warner Shows
Canvases At Tuesday
Afternoon Club

Nell Walker Warner, one of Glendale's foremost resident artists is exhibiting a number of her best canvases at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse this month.

In the group is a bit of local landscape in the foothills near Kenneth road. Marines include, "A Bit of California's Coast," "Grey Day at Palos Verdes," "Restless Sea," and "Fisherman's Cove." "Monday Morning" a study in perspective; "The Ruined Chapel" of San Juan Capistrano, filled with loveliest of soft lights and shadows; "Near the End of the Desert Road," will be recognized readily by residents of Sunland; "Quayama Lake" with giant poplars in the foreground; "The Oaks" of Griffith park, and "Twin Lakes" in the High Sierras and "Autumn Gold" are studies showing the wide diversity in nature to be found within reach of the artists of the southwest. The "California Home" shows a dainty bit of scenery with a bungalow in the distance.

Lauritz Paintings
A co-exhibitor with Mrs. Warner is Paul Lauritz, one of the best known painters of the southwest who has selected four pictures from his exhibit just closing at the Ambassador galleries. These are a marine, "A Study of Eucalypti," "Autumn Days" and "Sunset In San Dimas Canyon."

These exhibits held every month in the banquet hall of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse are open to the public and visitors are welcome.

Mrs. Warner is the wife of Dr. Bion S. Warner of 345 Chester street. Beginning the study of art in a small college in the mid-west, she continued with the Los Angeles School of Art and Design, first winning recognition as an artist by producing art titles for the screen. Technical experience, acquired while associated with the largest studio in Hollywood, has proven invaluable in her work. The artists' brush. A signal honor came to her recently when she was admitted to the California Art club. A few of the pictures in this exhibit were done under the critical eye of Paul Lauritz while on sketching excursions.

Mr. and Mrs. Olmsted
Entertaining Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kellogg were visitors recently at the H. J. Olmsted home, 364 West California avenue. Mr. Kellogg and Mrs. Olmsted were formerly residents of Arlington Heights, Ill., and are meeting here after a separation of thirty-five years. The visitors have wintered here as guests of a son, L. E. Kellogg of Burbank, combining a business trip with touring of Southern California. A younger son is in Burbank High school. Their eastern home is in the famous five-finger lake country near Ithica, N. Y.

Another guest entertained recently in the home was John White of Birmingham, Ala., uncle of Mrs. Olmsted. Mr. White is wintering with his son in South Pasadena and expects to leave for home about the last of May.

BOULDER DAM PUT UP TO UNCLE SAM

Ratification By California Of Six-State Pact Is Deciding Factor

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service,
Special to The Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—Adoption of the Finney resolution ratifying the Colorado river six-state treaty late yesterday by the Senate, now places the issue of the Boulder canyon dam squarely up to the federal Congress.

The Imperial valley people before leaving expressed thanks for the action which was strongly opposed by the Colorado river six-state treaty late yesterday by the Senate, now places the issue of the Boulder canyon dam squarely up to the federal Congress.

Dr. George Ordahl, chemical psychologist of Eldridge, Calif., an official at the Sonoma state home, was the first expert called today in the battle of the defense to have Dorothy Ellingson declared insane. Dorothy is normal in intelligence and her reactions "impulsive," he said.

Her impressions were made instantaneously, on the "perceptual level," he said. A person of that type is likely to act without deliberation, he said.

On cross examination, Dr. Ordahl said the first test of Dorothy had a "high average of intelligence" and that she gave her in "average normal" rating.

Involves Others
A hypothetical question several thousand words in length was in preparation today by counsel for Dorothy to be propounded to the alienists who will testify in the youthful "jazz babies" trial for sanity. They are expected to take the stand this afternoon.

Mrs. F. A. Deacon, an official of the juvenile court, on the stand through her a statement made by Dorothy accusing her jazz associates of contributing to her delinquency, was introduced.

The names of Keith Lord, Dave Stein, Emil Cruser and other alleged associates were contained in the statement and Mrs. Deacon testified charges had been brought against them and several had pleaded guilty.

Tells of Outbreak
Wooster Taylor, newspaper man was called and testified as to a hysterical outbreak on the part of Dorothy on the third morning of her murder trial, which occurred in an ante-room of the courtroom.

He described the fainting spells suffered by the girl, ten or more in number. He said she appeared to be in a complete collapse.

P. C. Jones, another newspaper man, testified to Dorothy's fainting spells.

Gussie Kennedy, assistant matron at the county jail, gave similar testimony. She said the girl's limbs were rigid and her feet cold.

Mrs. Kennedy testified to various times in the county jail on which the girl had become hysterical.

Dr. Fred B. Clark, medical superintendent of the Stockton state hospital was then called of the experts.

Dr. Clark gave his opinion as a result of a lengthy examination of the girl that she is insane. He said she replied to a question as to her own insanity with the words:

"Certainly I am sane."

Immediately following this statement defense counsel brought out from Dr. Clark's records a note made by him that Dorothy is insane persons always believe themselves sane.

Dorothy sat through today's session again without fainting, although she appeared weak at the noon recess.

During his examination laughter in the courtroom resulted in fifty spectators being ejected and Judge Harold Lunderbach said the courtroom would be cleared if the demonstration was repeated.

Jazz Baby's Insanity Is Told By Alienists mother in attending a party and the abnormal slaying itself.

The case practically was in reverse today. Taking state witnesses, the defense proved the facts of the slaying and the girl's confession of it. They recited her life history and that of her family.

And with the closing of the defense case the state will undertake to prove that Dorothy is normal in all respects that the reactions and alleged unnatural actions were the natural acts of a person placed in the position Dorothy found herself.

ARMY STORE SALE HINTS HIKE BOOM

S. D. Goldsmith, Coast To Coast Proprietor, Sees Vacation Rush

"Provided the merchandise people buy be any indication of what they are going to do, many Glendaleans are planning vacations to the mountains in the immediate future. This was the statement of S. D. Goldsmith, proprietor of the Coast-To-Coast Army store, Brand at Harvard, today, when he pointed out the fact that there was a most unusual demand for mountain and hiking clothes at the present time.

"This demand," Mr. Goldsmith said, "was created by the arrival of spring weather. Shortly after the early rains and the melting of the snow, Californians hike for the hills. They simply can't resist the lure of stream and mountains."

New stocks of khaki wearing apparel, mountain and hiking shoes and, in fact, a full line of wearing for beach or mountain is being displayed by this firm.

MUHLEMAN GIVEN COUNCIL BACKING

Philip Engelhorn Tells Why His Friend Should Be In City Office

"Editor The Evening News:—In a recent issue of your paper, I noticed that Frank L. Muhleman has announced himself as a candidate for councilman at the coming election.

"Having known Mr. Muhleman nearly ever since I first came to live in Glendale, which was in the fall of 1908, I feel that I should say something in his behalf, for the benefit of those later comers and voters who have not made his acquaintance. I met Mr. Muhleman at a meeting of what was at that time known as the Glendale Improvement association, of which he was a member and which organization I also joined. Our acquaintance from then on has grown into friendship. In all my experience I have met few men in whom I would place the confidence that I place in him. In the business dealings I have had with him, I have found him the personification of honor. Ever since I have known him he has always taken an active part in any movement that would further the interest of the city of his adoption.

Man of Character
"I feel that when a man of the character and capability of Mr. Muhleman is willing to give his time and thought and energy to the welfare of our city, he not only deserves the support of our entire citizenship but we ought to be only too glad to accept his services. I know, and all his friends and acquaintances know, that he is not a candidate for office from any mercenary motive. He is the kind of a man who wants the affairs of our city handled in as practical and economical a manner as is consistent with good results for all concerned.

"There is no doubt in my mind that we have other very good men, equally as good as Mr. Muhleman, who are retired business men and who would have time to devote to public office if they cared to do so; but will they do so? No, they will not sacrifice themselves. In the case of Mr. Muhleman I know it to be a real sacrifice and therefore I trust the voters will appreciate it to the extent of giving him their votes on Tuesday, April 14.

"Very truly yours,
"PHILIP ENGELHORN,
"226 West Chestnut."
